FRENCH MAY YIELD STAND AT CONCLAVE

Fear Blame for Parley Break-up and Loss of Prestige Among Powers COMPROMISE IN SIGHT
Paris Has More to Gain by Standing With Britain and United States

London —(P)—The Italian delegation to the naval conference was reported today to have held firmly to its stand at the outset of the naval conference for naval parity with France. Secretary Stimson, under-taking the role of mediator in the Franco-Italian naval dispute in an effort to solve the problem which is threatening the outcome of the conference, had a conversation with foreign Minister Grandi of Italy this afternoon.

Washington — Although every international conference must have its "crises" before there is an agreement, there are reasons why the government here has never really lost confidence that an understanding could be reached at London.

As the moves of the last week are unfolded, it is clear that France was placed in the position not merely of bearing the responsibility for a possible break-up of the conference but of being excluded from the councils of Great Britain, the United States and Japan. Inasmuch as Japan does not figure as conspicuously in the plans arising in Europe as do Great Britain and the United States the effect of such exclusion would have been to cement the Anglo-American understanding.

This is the last thing that French diplomacy would like to see developed unless in some way it included France in the parley thereafter, on the basis of an equal participant. But neither Great Britain nor the United States took kindly to the suggestion of a political agreement with respect to the Mediterranean problems in which France and Italy might some day develop friction.

It resolved itself therefore into a question of whether France would more about getting Great Britain and the United States committed to a Mediterranean policy which contingency was frowned upon by American senators as well as the British or whether France preferred to go along with Great Britain and the United States at this time without having Mediterranean matters into the picture.

NEEDS MORAL SUPPORT
France has more to gain by going along with Great Britain and the United States and hoping for their moral support in any emergency than to insist upon both those countries taking sides now on theoretical questions or getting involved in political entanglements.

Hints that the French may be satisfied by an agreement to discuss the supplementing of the Kellogg treaty are taken to mean here that France is not going to insist at this time on a political understanding of any kind and is willing to leave it to the future. The United States, on the other hand, could not very well propose an invitation to a conference which would determine what measures should be taken in the event that a nation broke faith on the Kellogg treaty.

Some conference of this kind is inevitable anyway, especially when efforts are made to codify international law and determine the rights and obligations of neutrals. So long as the Kellogg treaty is left unsupplemented it will not be known whether the United States would send food to civilian peoples or lend money to countries which are engaged in war of an offensive or defensive character.

Is Capone On Return Trip To Chicago?

Gang Chieftain and Bodyguard Hide Movements from Curious World

Chicago —(P)—Chicago watched in vain today for "Scarface" Alphonse Capone, free after ten months in a Pennsylvania prison. The Broadway Limited arrived to find a squad of policemen patrolling the Union station in search of Capone. It had been reported that the gang chief was Chicago-bound on the train, but conductors and trammens said he had at no time been aboard, and he was not seen at the suburban stations.

Chicago —(P)—"Scarface" Al Capone today was "lost" in the fog of mystery that shrouds gangland activities.

The Chicago gang leader, released yesterday from the Eastern penitentiary at Philadelphia, was variously reported as heading homeward in a train, an airplane and an automobile. In one point all the rumors were agreed—that was that Capone was coming back to Chicago where he achieved wealth and notoriety as the nation's biggest gangster.

How or when he would return was merely a matter of so much conjecture. Capone's Chicago associates followed the usual gang custom of admitting nothing and denying everything.

It seemed obvious, however, that he would not make a public display of his return. In the first place, there are enemy gangsters, reported anxious for the chance to avenge the deaths in their ranks attributed to Capone's henchmen. In the second place the police has indicated they will "treat Capone like any other hoodlum" and pick him up on sight.

The most generally accepted report was that Capone was on the Broadway Limited, the Pennsylvania system, accompanied by Frank Cline, the bodyguard who served ten months with his chief on charges of carrying guns, and others of his followers. The train's schedule calls for arrival in Chicago at 10 o'clock a. m., but it was considered unlikely that Capone would stay aboard that long, if he was on the train at all.

POOR, FLYING WEATHER
The chances that Capone would return by airplane were slim. The municipal airport said weather conditions made flying almost impossible last night and this morning.

Although city police posted squads near the Capone home and at other points where they thought the gangster might appear, federal authorities announced they would not molest him at present.

Capone is under $5,000 bond on a federal contempt of court citation which charges him with giving false affidavits. This action resulted from his affidavit last year that he was too ill at his Miami estate to return to Chicago and appear before a grand jury.

District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson said this case will be brought to trial before April 15 and that in the meantime Capone's bond is adequate and the government will not trouble him.

SENATE OPENS DEBATE ON BOOK CENSORSHIP

Washington —(P)—Opening debate on the "book censorship" section of the tariff bill, Senator Cutting, Republican, New Mexico, said that practically all the educators of the country were opposed to the present system and urged the senate to adhere to its decision to repeal the censorship section.

Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, has proposed an amendment to restore the present censorship in a modified form and has been vehement in his opposition to the entry of what he described as "immoral literature."

The constitution of the United Mine Workers of America, was amended today to give President John L. Lewis and the international executive board the power to set up provisional governments in districts where charters are revoked.

SNELL TARGET OF ATTACK BY REP. HOWARD

Nebraskan Contrasts Conditions With Those of Upper House

Washington —(P)—Representative Howard, 70-year-old Nebraska Democrat, today denounced what he termed "the gag rules of the house" and "absolute control by the triune will of three."

For the first time in his long life, the Nebraskan said, he was speaking with notes for fear he might pronounce "intemperate sentences should I speak extemporaneously."

He then proclaimed the United States senate the only natural forum preserving the power of free speech, and announced that in Washington was a man far more powerful than the president of the United States—"our princely colleague, the gentleman from New York, Mr. Snell, chairman of the gag rules committee of this house." He did not name the other two persons concerned in what he called "the rule of three."

In his drawing voice, the legislator said that tariff amendments, oil investigations, power investigations, and the Norris lame duck joint resolution had been choked to death by rule limitations—"simply because every member knows that in order to drag a measure from a hostile committee a petition to that end must be signed by 218 members of the house."

He contrasted conditions in the senate where, he said, "every member has the undeniable right to offer amendments to any pending bill," telling of the manner in which the two bodies handled the tariff legislation.

DEFENDED ON SENATE
Previous to "passage of that tariff bill under the gag rules, Howard said, protesting members had announced their intention to vote for the bill in the belief that the senate "working under its liberal rules would enact wise amendments."

Their faith was justified, he added, commenting that a splendidly amended tariff bill would some day come back to the house and adding as an aside, "God and Grundy know when."

He described his own colleagues, however, as "supinely submitting to the sway and control of three official members," "helpless as little children" and "controlled as absolutely as an American schoolboy controls his own marbles."

Centering his attack on Snell and what he termed "his murderous treatment of legislation for the country's weal," Howard rhetorically wished for courage to "look Berttram Snell squarely in the eye" while "My Quaker lips would paraphrase the speech of Andrew Jackson to Nicholas Biddle." Jackson, he explained, "uttered some short words" concerning "too much power."

PEIPING OFFICERS TAKE OVER CONTROL

Occupy All Nanking Regime Bureaus and Offices for Shansi Governor

Peiping, China —(P)—All Nanking government bureaus and administrative offices in Peiping, former capital of China, were taken over today by the local authorities who said they were acting under orders of Yen Hsi-Shan, so-called "model governor" of Shansi province.

The action implied a very definite widening of the breach between the administration of President Chiang Kai-Shek at Nanking, in central and south China, and the Shansi Kuomintang generals, headed by Yen. The northern group is now in complete control of the situation here.

The offices taken over by the municipal authorities included the telephone and telegraph administrations, the Peiping-Hankow railway administration, the vernacular North China Daily News, which is the Nationalist organ here, and the former home of Wellington Koo, which Chiang Kai-Shek has reserved as official residence. Peiping district offices of the Kuomintang also were taken over.

The authorities, accompanied by soldiers of Ye Hsi-Shan, went about in groups and accomplished their mission quietly. It was said they met no resistance anywhere. Many Nationalist leaders realized that this move might come at any moment and some already had vacated their posts, while others had left the city.

PASTORS TO ASK RASMUSSEN ABOUT ODDS WITH STAGG

Milwaukee —(P)—A committee of Methodist ministers has been delegated to write Coach Clarence Rasmussen of Lawrenceville, Appleton, for an explanation of his difference with the Stagg theories on prohibition and athletics. Coach Alonzo Stagg recently told a congressional committee that prohibition has helped college students, whose flocking to Methodist Lawrence college, became arked.

Coach Rasmussen's statement appeared last Friday in a Milwaukee newspaper, along with those of Coaches Thistlethwaite of Wisconsin and Jennings of Marquette. Coach Rasmussen's statement was as follows:

"Stagg, because of his age, has had better opportunities to observe and make a comparison, but I don't see how prohibition has helped stop drinking among students. I except Lawrence in this. I believe Lawrence has the highest moral tone of any school in the United States."

"But I do know from my observations at other schools, especially the larger ones, there is just as much drinking or more today than there was before prohibition. Among athletes much drinking never was done. That, I think, is one of the fine points in athletics. In general however, campuses today are wetter than they ever were."

CIVIL SUITS INJECTED IN DOHENY TRIAL

Oil Man Clears Way for Government Strategy in His Testimony

Washington —(P)—For the first time in the long series of criminal oil cases, the government today got before a jury the fact that the award of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve to a Doheny company had been termed by courts in civil cases as a fraud on the part of Edward L. Doheny, on trial for bribery, and Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior.

Doheny himself opened the door for admission of the testimony in his bribery trial by testifying under a qualifying cross-examination by Owen J. Roberts, special government prosecutor, how he accepted security for what the government charges was a $100,000 bribe to Fall.

The witness said that in 1924, after the first criminal indictments had been quashed, Fall sent him shares for his shares in his cattle company for security for what he termed the "n."

"He could do it then," he explained, "without being accused of trying to cover up as nothing in this case was pending."

"The civil cases were pending and you knew it didn't you?" Roberts shot back.

"Yes," replied the witness. "Didn't you refuse to testify on the grounds that it would incriminate you," asked the prosecutor.

Doheny wouldn't give a direct answer and the court directed that he do so.

BRING IN FRAUD
Roberts then asked Doheny if he did not know the civil court had held the leases to have been secured by fraud and had returned the leases to the government.

Doheny hesitated and answered, "And I know why he (the civil judge) did it."

The millionaire operator did not seem to realize he had made it possible for the government to get before the jury the civil decision in the oil case, but his counsel frequently interrupted Roberts. The government has been prevented heretofore from getting this evidence before a criminal jury.

DARROW TO ATTACK DRY LAW IN TWO DEBATES

New York —(P)—Clarence Darrow, Chicago criminal lawyer, was back in the United States today after nine months in Europe, prepared for two debates on prohibition.

Tomorrow night he will have as his opponent United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart and on Friday night he will debate against Clarence Thomas Wilson of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals.

CHINESE BANDITS MASSACRE 2,000, REPORTS DECLARE

Shanghai —(P)—Bandits and Communists, said delay of Chinese reports received here today, attacked and captured Fung, a town near Kiangsu, central Kiangsi province massacring all Fung officials and 2,000 men, women and children early this month.

After slaying the populace, the bandits looted the town, carrying their plunder into the mountains of western Kiangsi.

The outrage was reported by the magistrate of Kiangsi. He said the people of Fung were paralyzed with fear and were afraid further to oppose the bandits, who were depicted as subjects of a Doheny company to a merciless deluge of robberies and wholesale killings.

The magistrate appealed to the Nationalist government at Nanking for military assistance.

Three Dead In Indiana Train Wreck

Evansville, Ind. —(P)—Three men were killed and at least one other man was seriously injured today when a freight train on the Louisville and Nashville railroad was wrecked at Kinney station, between Guthrie, Ky., and Springfield, Tenn.

Details of the wreck were meager as officials of the company here boarded a wrecking train to rush to the scene.

The cause of the wreck according to information received at the company's offices here was a boiler explosion on the engine that threw the freight train from the rails and set fire to the cars.

The known dead are Henry Russell, trainman, Evansville, Aaron Moss, trainman, address unknown, an unidentified man believed to have been stealing a ride.

The injured, Joseph Ciandall, trainman, Evansville.

There were several tank cars of gasoline in the train and at least one of these near the engine blew up, scattering wreckage for some distance around the right of way.

Supt. J. J. Leeb, in charge of the Louisville and Nashville district here, with other officials of the company, left shortly after daylight with a wrecking train to clear the tracks.

Mr. Fish confirmed the list of dead and gave out details of the explosion. There was nothing left of the train, it was announced at the office here, except the twisted pile of twisted steel. The series of explosions and the fire that followed destroyed every car.

TWO FAIL IN ATTEMPT TO FLEE FROM PRISON

Columbus, Ohio —(P)—Two prisoners, one from Montgomery and the other from Cuyahoga, made an unsuccessful attempt to escape from the Ohio State penitentiary today.

The attempted break was frustrated by guard duty and an unprovoked fight during which the two men were killed. When they failed to heed his command, the guard shot Chief Probalski, 21, of Cuyahoga, in the chest. He was not seriously hurt. He is serving a sentence of one to three years for carrying concealed weapons.

The other prisoner, Robert Harding, 30, serving a 10-year sentence for carrying an inhibited dwelling at night, was not hurt, and was immediately placed in solitary confinement.

ASKS ACTION ON PATRONAGE PROBE REPORT

Hoover Says Conditions Alluded to Have Already Been Cleaned Up

Washington —(P)—President Hoover has asked the department of justice to consider the report of the senate committee on federal patronage in the south, which had condemned conditions there, and requested an investigation.

"As a matter of fact," President Hoover said, "the report refers to incidents, men and conditions which have already been cleaned up by the action I took on the 21st of March last."

A system has been established under instructions to the various departments of the government, Mr. Hoover continued, in which "these reprehensible practices have been absolutely stopped and the system of purchase and sale of appointments so far as it existed, has been ended."

All federal officials known to have engaged in such practices Mr. Hoover added, have either resigned or been removed.

The president said the department of justice already had taken under investigation charges, pertaining to other than patronage matters, that the committee had made against two federal officials.

UP IN SENATE
About the time of Mr. Hoover's announcement at the White House, the patronage question was raised again in the senate by Senator Charles Democrat, South Carolina, who condemned the chief executive and Postmaster General Brown for the appointment of postmasters in South Carolina.

At the White House, the president refused to make charges which have been brought in the effort to force the members of the new South Carolina advisory committee had accepted contributions from a person recommended for appointment.

"The charges were made by the old organization which has been displaced," the president said. "They were vigorously denied by the members of the new advisory committee. This matter has been for some weeks under investigation by the department of justice and the facts will be determined and published."

HOT WORDS FLY OVER LOBBY CONTRIBUTION

Washington —(P)—After a heated exchange with Chairman Huston of the Republic in National committee, and a row among its members, the senate lobby committee today issued a subpoena to obtain from the New York bookkeeper firm of the post and Bonner records of a $36,100 deposit made last year by Huston.

Huston, a former president of the Tennessee River Improvement association, objected strenuously to the committee action and characterized it as unwarranted interference with his personal affairs. He also asserted that his "character had been attacked."

The committee first proposed to obtain a record of all of Huston's accounts with the New York firm but when Senator Robinson of Indiana, Republican, protested and threatened to carry the fight to the senate the subpoena was limited to the records of the $36,100 contribution from the Union Carbide company.

The discussion raged in the committee room for several minutes and was one of the stormiest sessions that has taken place since the lobby committee started its sessions several months ago.

NO WITNESS TAKES STAND FOR DEFENSE

Prosecution Witness Testifies He Received $32,000 as Dividends

DEFENSE PLEA DENIED
Closing Arguments to Jury Started This Morning at Cedar Rapids

Cedar Rapids, Iowa —(P)—Without calling a single witness, the defense in the trial of George E. Huckins on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses rested today. Closing arguments to the jury started at 10 o'clock a. m.

Previously Judge F. O. Ellison had overruled a defense motion for a directed verdict.

The only person to appear on the witness stand before the defense rested its case was Charles Negus, partner of Huckins in the Negus and Negus Retail Cigar store here. Negus, who testified Friday for the state, was recalled by the defense and testified that he had received $32,000 as dividends for his investment in Huckins' mysterious business which had paid a 25 to 52 per cent interest on investments.

He said he also received an undetermined sum which he reinvested in the business.

Negus asserted that the Huckins and Negus cigar store carried no defective or "second" cigars purchased from the defendant. He said he once asked George Huckins why he never used in the store the defective cigars he said he sold in his business. Negus said Huckins told him that the product sold "too fast."

BUSINESS DISPUTED
County Attorney Carl Hendrickson yesterday afternoon concluded the state's evidence seeking to prove that Huckins did not engage in the sale of defective cigars. Verne Marshall, managing editor, and Earl Coughlin, sports editor of the Cedar Rapids Gazette, testified Huckins told them last August that he did not operate such an enterprise.

"It might be any merchandise business," Marshall declared. Huckins told the newspaperman said he asked if it was correct lawyers had turned over $30,000 to him.

"When I tell you the whole story, those figures will look small," he quipped. Huckins as replying Marshall said the defendant described the enterprise as being "so simple it will make you laugh."

John Przek, cigar manufacturer and jobber here for 25 years, declared he had never heard of anyone in the cigar business. Defense attorneys succeeded in having removed from the record further testimony regarding his knowledge of general practices in cigar making.

RAIL COMMISSION CHAIRMAN IS DEAD

Lewis E. Gettle Dies at Madison After Illness of Nearly Year

Madison —(P)—Lewis E. Gettle, chairman of the Wisconsin Railroad commission, died at his home here early today. He was 67 years old, and had been in poor health for nearly a year. He had been seriously ill for the last two months and died from a heart ailment and complications.

Mr. Gettle was first identified with the railroad commission in 1912 as secretary. He resigned in 1915 to practice law, but was appointed to the body in 1921 and immediately elected chairman.

Lorn Jan. 28, 1863, near Lancaster, Pa., he was the second of six children when he was nine years old and lived on a farm in Green County. He was graduated from Carleton (Ill.) college and was principal of high schools at Edgerton, Evansville, and Juda, Wis.

Deciding to become an attorney, Mr. Gettle enrolled in the University of Wisconsin, and was graduated in 1888. He practiced in Edgerton, Janesville and Madison.

Mr. Gettle was named special counsel for the dairy and food commission in 1902, and served until 1909. He then was elected to the assembly as a progressive in 1910, and later named secretary of the railroad commission.

He is survived by the widow and three children, Theodore and Burton, both of Madison, and Rollin D. Milwaukee.

Mr. Gettle was a past president of the Railroad and Utilities Commissioners' association, a national organization.

Income Tax Revenue Slightly Under That Of Last Year

EXACT AMOUNT IN DOUBT BUT IS NOT GREAT

Officials Refuse to Venture Estimate of Eventual Total from Tax

Washington—(AP)—The treasury statement issued today as of March 15 showed that income tax collections were running a scant $3,000,000 behind the total on that day a year ago.

This, however, could be taken only as an indicator, and a none too accurate one at that, for the bulk of the payments of last Saturday have yet to be reported.

Treasury officials know that millions of dollars were taken in at the offices throughout the country. These as yet had not been officially recorded here and until received the treasury statement shows only a small fraction of the money actually on-hand.

The statement for March 15, issued this morning, showed the total collections in the treasury on that date amounted to $87,507,962, against more than $72,500,000 a year ago.

Treasury officials, however, already have before them a much larger total obtained by the telegraphic poll. This they have declined to make public although Secretary Mellon has said it was lower than last year's but not substantially so.

This larger total cannot show in the treasury balance for several days. Officials refused today to venture any estimate of the eventual total.

Figures for this year so far obtainable were held by treasury officials to be not comparable with the collections of last year because of Sunday intervening directly after the final payment day.

This, they explained, would affect the speed with which collections are shown in the treasury balance.

The total added to the treasury balance on March 15 of this year was more than $18,000,000 while last year it was only $15,000,000.

On the day succeeding the fifteenth, however, figures running above a hundred million were added to the treasury general fund. The same will occur this year, although treasury officials have pointed out that it may be a week before the accumulated collections will show a true comparison with those for 1929.

National Honors Paid To de Rivera By Homeland

Madrid—(AP)—The body of Don Miguel Primo de Rivera was brought back to Spain today, entering the country at Irun, the same frontier city through which so many of those he exiled when dictator left their homeland, and from which he himself departed just a month ago, discredited and cast aside.

Friends and foe alike, their bitterness quenched at the bier, planned for him the highest honors the Spanish monarchy accords to one not its sovereign. He will be buried with the military pomp of his rank of captain general.

Even a strongly partisan press to date generally refrained from the bitter political comment against the former dictator which, filled its columns until his death Sunday forenoon in self-imposed exile in Paris.

The funeral party arrived at Irun at 8 o'clock a. m. and will remain until late this afternoon. The body will be removed from the train at the border city to a special chapel in the railway station, where a mass service will be sung, departure for Madrid following.

The funeral train will arrive at the Norte station, Madrid at 7 o'clock a. m. tomorrow morning. Another mass then will be sung inside the funeral car. Premier General Berenguer, other government dignitaries, representatives of King Alfonso, relatives, clerics, and personal friends will be present.

The funeral cortege will leave the train at 11 o'clock a. m. escorted by representatives of every branch of the army and navy carrying draped banners. It will go directly to San Isidro cemetery where the body will be interred in the family vault, next to that of his wife.

Although General Primo de Rivera's three sons will accompany the cortege, his two daughters, Carmen and Maria Pilar, who discovered his body in his room Sunday morning, probably will take no part in the ceremony, Spanish custom forbidding. They are aboard the train bringing the body here.

King Alfonso himself probably will not march in the cortege, because of tradition, but the Infante Don Jaime probably will represent him.

General Primo de Rivera's title, Marquis de Estella, will go to the former dictator's son, Jose Antonio Primo de Rivera.

AWAIT CENSUS IN NATION ON LABOR STATUS

Survey May Reveal Whether Government Can Remedy Present Situation

Washington—(AP)—Pending the unemployment survey to be taken next month by the census bureau, a senate committee today started an inquiry into the situation, and Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, the first witness before the committee, testified he regarded the number of persons out of work to have reached "serious" proportions.

Washington—(AP)—Administration officials are awaiting expectantly census of unemployment next month which is to determine for the first time the number of persons idle in the United States as a result of economic conditions, including the depression following the stock market crash.

Secretary Davis has estimated that the total does not exceed 3,000,000, while other estimates have ranged higher.

Upon the results of the count will depend the measures which the government will undertake to relieve the situation. It was pointed out today that in the absence of definite information, it has been impossible to take effective steps for solving the problem. Action will be possible, however, it was added, both by congress and by the administration when data is available as to the extent of unemployment, the industries seriously affected, the periods of time during which employees in these industries are idle and the causes.

Sworn to keep confidential for the census bureau information obtained concerning unemployment, the census takers will ask questions as to employment of all persons who usually are working at some gainful occupation. These will include, particularly persons who ordinarily earn wages, but will include also those who carry on, or have carried on, their own independent businesses. Unemployment in this latter class is not expected, however, to be found very troublesome.

METHOD OF SURVEY

The names of all gainful workers who were not at work on the day preceding the enumerators call will be recorded in the canvass, but all of these will not be counted as unemployed. Persons who report that they have no jobs at all will be asked whether the available to work, whether they have sought a job and the reason for being out of work. Those who report they do have a job but are not at work at the time will be asked why, and whether they are losing pay by not being at work.

Queries also to be propounded both to those without jobs and those on layoff as to how long they have been idle. The extent of unemployment in the nation depends it was said, as much on the length of the period of idleness as upon the number idle.

This will be the fifth canvass of unemployment, others having been taken in 1880, 1890, 1900 and 1920. In 1921 president Harding's conference on unemployment sought information on the subject, but its compilers reported only that the total lay somewhere between 3,500,000 and 5,000,000.

After the census is taken next month, Secretary Lamont expects to use it as a basis for keeping abreast of unemployment. This will be done by a process of "sampling" in various sections where the worst conditions exist.

17 MORE PEOPLE FILE DELINQUENT REPORTS

Seventeen more delinquents filed income tax blanks Monday and Tuesday morning with Leo J. Toonen, assessor of incomes, at the courthouse. Most of the delinquent returns arrived in the mails. This makes a total of 54 delinquents since Saturday and each of these tardy persons will be penalized $5 as provided by law. Mr. Toonen said, Mr. Toonen and his staff are checking the thousands of returns which were filed by Outagamie and Waupaca-co citizens.

Jury Settles Case Resulting from Fight at Northport Drink Parlor

Dan Dowd was found guilty and Robert Plant, Bernard and William Faskel and Glenn Hoag, acquitted by a jury in municipal court at Waupaca on charges of being drunk and disorderly at a Northport soft drink parlor, March 4. The men all live in the town of Lebanon.

Arrest of the men followed a fight when Dowd was ordered from the soft drink parlor by Herman Ernst, proprietor. Dowd and the other men had entered the parlor together, but the latter claimed they did not enter into the fight in which Dowd received three broken ribs, a black eye and bloody face. However, one of the men, Glenn Hoag admitted he went after Dowd's brother Matt in another saloon, the latter stopping the fight.

Young Dowd was fined $10 and $10 as costs with a 30 day sentence in jail as alternative. He now is serving a 30 day sentence on a similar charge.

Slain Man Found Leader Of Extortion Gangsters

Taos, N. M.—(AP)—The mysterious cloud surrounding the strange life and death of Arthur R. Manby was partly lifted today following the charge that Manby was a leader in the "United States Secret Civil Service society," an alleged scheme for extortion and intimidation.

Manby's decapitated body was found in his home here last July 2. After a jury decided that the man died from natural causes and that his police dog, found in the room, had chewed the head from the body, a further investigation by state and federal officers was started.

The latest development was an announcement by Herbert Cheetum, said a spell of fear which has closed the lips of certain persons in Taos has been broken, and the society has been exposed as nothing more than a confidence game.

In support of their plans members of the organization spoke glibly of fabulous sums and rights to ancient land grants worth fortunes. It was asserted by the deputy. He declared Manby and his "Princess Terecita" were members.

Dissolution of the United States Secret Civil Service society mystery is believed to explain also the fabulous sums which were alleged in Manby's private papers to have been due Terecita Ferguson, known as "princess," including one of $827,000. Manby spent nearly a half century flickering for old Spanish land grants. One was a claim for Terecita of a $10,000,000 land grant in southeastern Missouri.

Terecita, together with her common law husband, Carmel Duran and her nephew, George Ferguson, have been charged with a series of robberies in Taos.

Meanwhile at Santa Fe, authorities questioned the right of the United States Department of Justice to intervene in the investigation of Manby's mysterious decapitation.

The British embassy, at the instance of Manby's relatives in England, has asked the United States government to intervene in the case.

VERDICT DIRECTED AGAINST PLAINTIFF IN INSURANCE SUIT

Judge Holds Policy Was Not in Effect When Youth Was Killed

Judge Theodore Berg, in municipal court Monday afternoon, directed a verdict in favor of the Mutual Insurance Company of New York, defendant in a suit for $1,000 brought by Eugene Dachelet, 719 W. Fourth-st.

Dachelet sought to force the company to pay the $1,000 on an insurance policy which had been issued on his son, Eugene, 13, who was killed last August in an automobile accident on Cherry-st.

The plaintiff claimed that his son had signed the application for the insurance policy, that he had passed the doctor's examination, and that the policy had been delivered to the local agent in Appleton and was in effect when the boy was killed even though it had not been delivered at the Dachelet home.

In dismissing the case Judge Berg held that the application which the boy had signed stated that the policy would not be in effect until it had been delivered and paid for. He said this contract was plain.

Dachelet claimed he had offered to pay for the policy but the local agent refused the money and asked him to wait until the policy was delivered.

The case opened before a jury in Judge Berg's court Monday morning and the verdict was directed late Monday afternoon after the testimony was closed.

BUILDING PERMITS

Three building permits were issued by John Welland, building inspector, Monday. They were granted to Joseph Schmiller, 603 N. Richmond-st, one car garage, cost $75; Floyd Birmingham, 318 E. Randall-st, one car garage, cost $150; and Edward A. Arndt, 1019 N. Fair-st, one car garage, cost $200.

Frenchmen Now Cautious About Atlantic Flights

Paris—(AP)—Two out of the three transatlantic flights from Europe to America, planned by the French aviators for 1930, have already crashed before the planes ever got out of the hangars.

Captain Dieudonne Costes and Captain Henri Carrelier had announced their intention of attempting le Bourget to New York, and Jean Asolant, Rene LeFevre and Armand Lotti, who last year went from Old Orchard, Maine, to San Sebastian, said this year they would reverse the route and fly from Seville to Maine or New York, according to the weather.

Carrelier's transatlantic plane was burned at Villa Coublay field when, after emerging from the Cousinet air-plane works, the first attempt to fit the motors into it was made.

Lotti, backer of the proposed Seville to America flight told the Associated Press recently that his Bonnard monoplane, with which he intended to try the big hop westward, could not be ready until late July or early August and therefore too late for 1930.

"The flight is only postponed," Lotti said, "we will certainly try it in 1931."

Costes alone remains as France's hope for a Paris-New York flight in 1930.

Brequet is building a new plane for Costes, along the general outlines of his "Quésada Mark" but equipped with three 600 H. P. Hispano-Suiza motors instead of one, and with a lifting capacity of two tons more than the plane with which Costes broke the world's long distance, non-stop, straight line flight record, to Tientsin, China, last autumn.

French aviation manufacturers, has had very bad luck in his enterprises. His plane, with thick wings in which the fuel is stored, crashed with Maurice Drouchin, once pilot for Charles Levine, and Drouchin lost his life in the accident.

Although lacking funds, Cousinet rebuilt the same model for Captain Carrelier, war ace, and it went up in flames without ever having left the ground.

With the abandonment of the Lotti plans for a Seville to America flight, the correspondent asked what had become of the successful transatlantic flyers.

He learned that Asolant was back at his old job on mail plane pilot between Paris and Strasbourg; Rene LeFevre has been promoted to chief mechanic in an airplane factory near Paris and Lotti is managing his hotel in Paris.

"And listen," Lotti confided to the correspondent, "I am out $5,000 on the flight. We made no money."

PLAN BOARD UNABLE TO AGREE ON ZONE PLEA

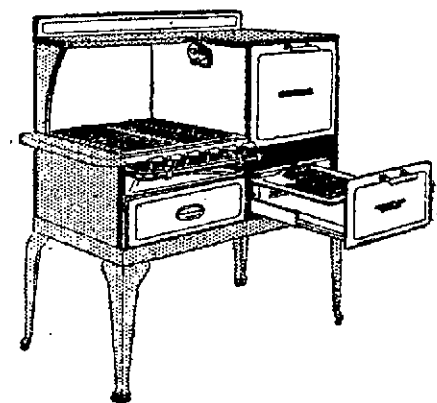

With the failure of the planning commission to reach a decision at its meeting Monday afternoon, a second meeting of the group has been called for 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Matters under discussion are the petition of Dr. E. W. Cooney to have his property in the Second ward plat annexed to the commercial district, and the request of A. W. Miller to have property in the Sixth ward plat placed in the local business district.

At Milwaukee Circuit Judge Edgar V. Werner went to Milwaukee Monday to preside in circuit court. He was accompanied by William H. Kreiss, circuit court reporter. They expect to remain in Milwaukee all week.

Here is Mrs. Nancy Bowen, 66-year old Seneca Indian woman, photographed just after she had been arrested for the murder of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, wife of a prominent Buffalo artist. The murder came as the climax of a infatuation conceived for Henri Marchand, the artist, by Lillian Jimerson, an Indian girl, who had posed as a model for the artist's paintings, and is believed to have been due to jealousy. Buffalo police say Mrs. Bowen has confessed, asserting that the younger woman, by playing on her superstitions, induced her to kill the artist's wife with a hammer and a wad of paper soaked in chloroform.

CIRCULATE MANY NEW VOLUMES AT LIBRARY

"The Woman of Andros" by Wilder Makes Appearance on Shelves

"The Woman of Andros" by Thornton Wilder author of "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," is one of the new and fascinating books recently placed on the Appleton public library shelves. Because of its extreme popularity a reserve list is being used in its circulation.

The new book by Wilder is a study in the inner life of simple village dwellers.

Another outstanding book recently received is "Daughters of Eve" by Gamaliel Bradford. Through the pages of the volume step the fascinating and sprightly Ninon de Lenclos; the subtle, elusive, enigmatic Madame de Maintenon; the passionately mystical Madame Guyon; Madeleine de Lespinasse, summing up the eternal duo of love; Catherine the Great, with the woman's desire and the sovereign's glory; George Sand, blending the author's ambition with the lover's despair; Sarah Bernhardt with her intoxicating theatrical success, and other interesting daughters of Eve.

Captain B. H. Liddell Hart's "Sherman" is another new addition at the library. It is a shrewd and searching analysis of a forceful and dramatic figure, viewed not only as the military hero of a particular hour, but also as the typical and characteristic American of his era.

Court Report Shows Fines Totaled $320; Costs, $63; Fees, $36

Twenty-seven law violators paid fines and costs totaling $419.57 in municipal court during February according to the monthly report of William R. Kreiss, municipal court reporter.

The report shows fines totaled $320; costs, $63.12; and officer's fees, $36.45.

Of the total amount $250 in fines, $42.50 in costs and 20.20 in fees were collected from violators of city ordinances while 70 in fines; $20.52 in costs; and $16.25 in fees, were collected from breakers of state laws.

In addition to those who paid fines five violators were sent to jail; four were bound over for trial, and one case was dismissed.

Arrests under state laws were made as follows: Jumping arterial, one; non-support, two; drunkenness, five; vagrancy, one; causing a disturbance at a dance, two; bastardy, one; using a car without consent of the owner, one; drunken driving, two; assault and battery, one; passing worthless checks, one.

TAXPAYERS BEAT DEAD LINE WITH INCOME REPORTS

Time hasn't yet eliminated last-minute Christmas shopping, or the Saturday night rush in the barber shops, but it—or the government—seems to have effectively discouraged procrastination in filing the dread income tax.

Though the mails Saturday night were clogged with official income tax envelopes, Elmer Honkamp, deputy collector of internal revenue, reports that only two persons filed at his office in city hall after 6 o'clock. Mr. Honkamp predicts that in a short time the government, assured that the midnight deadline is no longer necessary, will close its federal income tax offices at 6 o'clock.

However, though only two persons filed in the evening, the office was full of taxpayers all day Saturday. That the midnight oil had burned brightly Friday night was indicated by the large number of blanks that were all ready to file; few persons asked for assistance on the last day.

Arrests under city ordinances were made as follows: Jumping arterial, 4; speeding, six; indecent exposure, one; disorderly conduct, two; parking, one; drunken driving, two; drunkenness, three; having more than three adults in the front seat of a car, two.

Public Hunting Grounds Depend On Public Sentiment

MAUTHE TELLS SPORTSMEN OF STATE'S WORK

Fish and Game Society Approves More Extensive Game Propagation

Public sentiment must determine the demand for more hunting and fishing grounds, or they never will be established, William Mauthe, chairman of the Wisconsin Conservation commission told about 100 men gathered at the Hotel Northern Monday evening for the annual meeting of the Outagamie county Fish and Game Protective association.

Other speakers were D. H. Kipp, Madison, superintendent of publicity and education of the conservation commission, who addressed the group on Fish Culture in Wisconsin; and Harold Wilson of Lawrence college, who spoke on Bird Banding and Its Relation to Conservation.

ADAPT STATE PROPOSALS

Mr. Mauthe outlined six propositions which were unanimously adopted by the association following his address.

Mr. Mauthe proposed first that the state acquire the best fishing and hunting places in all parts of Wisconsin, for free use by the public; second, that the state increase the capacities of its present fish hatcheries until state plantings of fish shall reach 600,000,000 or more each year, third, that the state increase the capacities of rearing ponds to supply an abundance of pan fish and rear all fish to fingerling size or larger before planting; fourth, that the state substantially increase fish raising activities in natural reservoirs in the northern part of the state; fifth, that the state increase the capacity of the state game farm to the fullest possible extent and establish other game farms in suitable locations; and sixth, that the state enact a resident fishing license law so that funds will be made available for making these projects a reality.

"The work of the commission is not merely the administration of laws relative to fish and game, but that which has happened to get in the statute books. The commission is trustee of the state's resources in forests, fish, game and other natural resources, and is charged with the responsibility of preserving these resources for present and future generations."

STATE PROPERTY

"All fish in lakes and streams, and wild game in field and forest, are the property of the people, held in trust for them by state governments. Migratory game belongs to the Federal government, and this is well established by state and Federal laws that it does not admit of dispute."

"In theory the people retain the right to take this game, subject to rules and regulations, in actual practice, their claim to this property is limited. Except for state and Federal lands, all the surface of this country is in the hands of persons holding title to the lands, and subject only to certain police powers vested on the state, land owners have absolute control of their respective holdings," he stated.

"The hunter, though he actually owns a share of the game, and may have purchased a license to claim his share wherever he can lawfully find it, still is barred from exercising this right unless he either owns the land or arranges with the owner to go upon his land for hunting."

"When the state found that ownership carried with it responsibilities, laws were passed stating when game could be taken and what rights could be exercised when reduced to possession. Gradually commissions were established to look out for the state's game and fish."

APPRECIATE WILD LIFE

"More and more the value of wild life in the state was being appreciated, and as time went on state commissions were receiving moral and financial support from the public. Private agencies were moving along with the state in propagation of game and fish."

"Although some hunters showed due regard for the rights of land owners, the development of farming made it less and less desirable for the farmer to allow hunters to tramp over his fields. To both farmers and other land owners came the conviction that wild game had a value that could be translated into cash."

"As a result 'No hunting' or 'No fishing' signs soon studded the landscape, and other signs mean that wealthy sportsmen have leased or purchased the land, and that the tenant, sometimes a sportsman's club, has exclusive hunting and fishing rights on the premises."

"The exercise of police powers by the state can send conservation wardens onto a man's land to enforce laws, and the state can tell a private land owner when he may, and when he may not, start a brush fire, and what use he may make of streams and lakes."

OWNER HAS RIGHTS

"The state may not send its conservation wardens onto private land to administer its own wild life property without consent of the owner. The state may liberate game upon his lands but without his consent the state may not thereafter go upon the land in the interests of that planted game stock," Mr. Mauthe outlined.

"The commission after producing additional game stock has no right to go upon any man's land without his consent to prepare the ground for favorable conditions after planting."

"The custom of unrestricted pursuit of fish and game continued for many years. The hunter came to look upon the privileges he had received from the land owners as his right. Privileges once enjoyed by the public are given up only with reluctance and a show of resistance.

For More Fish

William Mauthe, chairman of the Wisconsin Conservation commission, told 100 members of Outagamie County Fish and Game society last night of the state's plan to increase wild life in the state.

AWAIT SENTIMENT

"But there never was an actual system of free hunting and fishing. There was only a state of social adjustment through which people exploited for their own benefit or pleasure the wild life property which always belonged to the people. Quite naturally all fishermen and hunters who are not owners of game lands would like to see a system of free hunting and fishing established, but it is up to public sentiment to do the determining," Mr. Mauthe stated.

"Hunters and trappers always have paid their way but the resident fisherman has not," Mr. Mauthe said. "The time is at hand when the great majority of adult Wisconsin fishermen will be willing to pay a moderate fee, perhaps a dollar a year, for the privilege of taking fish from the state's waters."

"Few farmers and workmen will object to a resident fishing license of only one dollar per year for adults if they are assured that the money so raised will be used in producing millions of fish of larger size for distribution in state's waters and for the establishment of free public hunting and fishing grounds for use of all people," he said.

WISCONSIN IS LEADER

Mr. Mauthe believes that a more aggressive and progressive program of conservation for Wisconsin demands not only that there should be more game for hunters, more fish for fishermen, but also that places be provided where the people may take this fish and game, and again he stated that it was up to public sentiment to determine these things.

"Wisconsin is a pioneer in the propagation of fish," Mr. Kipp stated in his address. "Wisconsin has done more in scientific experimentation towards determining the proper methods of artificial propagation than any other state in the union," he said.

Mr. Kipp then proceeded to trace the evolution of the various kinds of fish found in streams of Wisconsin and neighboring states and told the group about the methods used in propagating them.

"There are two ways in which the future of fishing can be assured and they are propagation and protection. The state is doing all in its power to help the situation, but it is up to the public to cooperate in carrying out this great project," he stated.

"Seventy-one wardens are now active in the state protecting fish, but it is up to the public sentiment to determine what is right and what is wrong when it comes to fishing. Wardens are not prohibition agents, as so many people call them, but are merely trying to protect that which rightfully belongs to the people of the state," he said.

In his address on Bird Banding and Its Relation to Conservation, Mr. Wilson stated that more and more hunters are becoming interested in the sport and are anxious to learn something about the habits of birds.

"Few hunters know where birds migrate during the various periods, what their habits are, what they live on, or where they come from," Mr. Wilson stated.

The speaker outlined the habits of various kinds of birds, including ducks, geese, grouse, partridges, prairie chickens, gulls, hawks, eagles, vireos, swallows and many other kinds of birds.

Bird banding has grown from a mere hobby to a national enterprise, which is proving beneficial to the public, he said. "The government employs many people to carry on this work in the interests of the public and for national study. In the near future, bird banding probably will be studied extensively in schools and there is an immense future for the project," he said.

40 AUTO DEALERS AT DISTRICT MEET HERE

An all day meeting of Oakland Pontiac dealers was held at the Conway hotel Monday, with 40 dealers in this section of the state in attendance.

New models were shown on the screen, and J. H. Ball from the factory pointed out the new improvements. Other speakers were P. A. Cunningham, Milwaukee, zone manager, and Kenneth Lawrence, Appleton, district representative.

Dealers from Sturgeon Bay, Marinette, Algoma, Green Bay, Shawano, Marion, Clintonville, Appleton, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac were present.

Arrangements for the affair were made by O. R. Klehn of the local Oakland firm.

LAWRENCE DEBATE SQUAD ON 4-DAY TOUR IN ILLINOIS

Speakers Will Meet Teams from Other Colleges

A Lawrence college affirmative debate team will leave tomorrow night on a four-day invasion of Illinois colleges, beginning the last lap of the 1929-30 debate schedule. The Lawrence team will be composed of Robert Beggs, Pensacola, Fla., and Irwin Marquardt, Wausau.

The question to be discussed in the Illinois debate will be the subject under the Illinois colleges concerning international disarmament. This differs from the question previously covered by Lawrence debaters, heretofore arguing on American disarmament alone. Yesterday afternoon the men's team met Eugene Porschbacher, West Bend, and Helen Snyder, Evanston, Mich., of the girls' varsity team, in a practice contest on the new question.

The Illinois invasion will be the second out of state trip taken by Lawrence debaters this year. Last week a Lawrence negative team composed of William Morton Marinette, and Dan Hopkinson, Milwaukee, met teams from both Michigan and Iowa before Michigan Audiences. Beggs and Marquardt will debate against Wheaton college, North Central college, and Illinois Wesleyan.

OVER SCORE PERISH IN BURNING VESSEL

Cargo of Petroleum Catches Fire as Steamer Is Anchored on River

Bogota, Colombia. —(P)— Burned by flames which even water could not quench, the bodies of between 20 and 30 passengers and crew of the river steamer Bucaramanga were sought today in the Magdalena at La Dorada.

The Bucaramanga, berthed at the small river town yesterday, was destroyed when its cargo of petroleum caught fire and burned like tinder. Its captain, Antonio Velez, refusing to leave his ship, was burned to death while standing on its bridge. Passengers and crew squeezing through portholes to escape a furnace behind them, jumped into the river, the surface of which was covered with petroleum which had been released from the ship's tanks. This in a moment caught fire, too, and the bodies of those who were burned to death before they could swim away.

Only ten passengers of a list thought to number more than 30 were saved. Other steamers in the harbor stood by helplessly, afraid to venture too near the doomed ship where the barrels of oil were exploding and splattering liquid fire for great distances about.

The fire, which was believed to have been the result of carelessness of a fireman.

La Dorada is a small port about 450 miles from the mouth of the Magdalena.

2 MORE STREET CARS BOMBED DURING STRIKE

New Orleans. —(P)— The dynamiting of two street cars early today ended a two months period of quiet and brought to approximately 70 the number of trolleys bombed since a strike of street car employees last July.

No one was injured in the explosions, which were within eight blocks of each other and a few minutes apart in time. The first at Galvez-st and Napoleon-ave the front wheel of a car was cracked and its windows were shattered. The second was suffered by the trolley dynamited at S. Claiborne and Jefferson-aves.

Police and federal marshals, who have met with little success in previous investigations, began an inquiry into the latest violence.

White Russians Get Gold In Japan Despite Soviet

Tokyo. —(P)— An echo of ten years ago, when the "governments" of various White Russian adventurers were making their last stands in Siberia against the Red advance, has resounded through legal, financial and diplomatic circles in Tokyo.

Two White Russian factions, agreeing to end a ten-year squabble, obtained a court order on which they took in the Yokohama Specie Bank about 1,400,000 yen ($100,000) to be used for unstated purposes, in spite of the belated protests of the Soviet Embassy.

The story began in 1919, when Ataman Semenov, White Cossack leader in Siberia, came to Japan with more than a million yen in gold bullion, earmarked for the purchase of a Japanese battleship to be used against the Bolsheviks. The gold was placed in charge of Major General Podlagin, military attaché of the still surviving Tsarist Embassy, who deposited it with the Yokohama Specie Bank.

Later Semenov's "government" collapsed and he took refuge in Japan. Meanwhile General Podlagin, tired of his empty job in Tokyo and joined the White Russian colony in Paris.

There followed years of litigation, Semenov suing to compel Podlagin to make over the gold deposit to him, while Podlagin maintained it should be held in trust for the new "White" government of Russia, which was always a will-o-the-wisp dancing just ahead.

A Tangle of Love and Millions

Principals in the battle in Reno divorce courts between Ralph Elsmann, Brooklyn gas magnate, now living in California, and his first wife for custody of their son, Ralph, Jr., are pictured here. (1) Ralph Elsmann, Jr., nicknamed "Doodie," central figure in the dispute, who is now with his father; (2) Mrs. Beatrice Elsmann the boy's mother, now seeking the child and who denies Elsmann bought custody of his son with a $200,000 divorce settlement in 1928; (3) Ralph Elsmann; (4) Mrs. Florence Elsmann, former nursemaid in the Elsmann home, who married the millionaire three weeks after his divorce. She is shown here with their infant daughter, Mary Louise.

Byrd Broadcasts To Pupils On His Polar Experiences

Dunedin, N. Z. —(P)— In perhaps the most inclusive broadcast ever attempted in New Zealand, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, addressed approximately 400,000 school children today, telling them of his experiences during the year of exploration in Antarctica.

The two islands of New Zealand were linked up by cable across Cook strait and the address made in the town hall before 7,000 children of Dunedin, was sent by land lines to Christ church, Wellington and Auckland. Receiving sets were installed in practically every school in the country and Byrd's voice was heard equally well in all of them.

It was widely believed that Byrd's address would do much toward cementing relations between New Zealand and the United States. His reception at the Dunedin town hall was tumultuous with plaudits of the young people. He was the first world famous man to address New Zealand students by radio and his achievements in the Antarctic have made him their idol.

His talk of adventures in the South polar regions, which included a flight over the South pole, won the friendship of thousands and when Admiral Byrd proposed that he take to the United States the greeting of the school children of New Zealand the applause was enthusiastic.

Earlier today Admiral Byrd called the members of his expedition from their vacations in the mountains to prepare for the departure for New York next Sunday. The bark City of New York, came from dry docks today painted and overhauled. She will unload her cargo and carry only provisions to New York via Tahiti and the Panama canal.

The bark probably will precede the steamer Eleanor Bolling by a week. Admiral Byrd is pursuing mail steamer time tables with the object of mapping out his personal route, but is indefinite as to his plans.

REICHSTAG ADOPTS NEW REPUBLIC DEFENSE LAW

Berlin. —(P)— The Reichstag today adopted the new law for the protection of the republic by a vote of 265 to 150.

The law supersedes the old defense law which went out of operation on July 22, 1929. Under the old law the former kaiser was specifically forbidden to reenter Germany. The new law does not contain this provision, and, while under it the kaiser theoretically would be free to return, nobody, not even the Monarchists, considers even the possibility of his return.

BOND JUMPER AGAIN ESCAPES OFFICERS

Milwaukee. —(P)— Again a fugitive from justice, Fred H. Schmidt, former policeman and convicted bootlegger, today was the object of a state-wide hunt.

Arrested Saturday at Fond du Lac after jumping bail on a liquor charge last December, Schmidt escaped prohibition officers in the federal building here Monday as they sought to question him.

In the midst of their questions, Schmidt asked permission to step into a washroom a minute. The minute dragged on. After 10 minutes agents started a hunt for him, with no success.

Cavern Proves America Was Inhabited 20,000 Years Ago

BY PHILIP J. SINNOTT Las Vegas, Nev.—A race of early Americans, believed to have pursued gigantic ground sloths 20,000 years ago, is in turn being hotly pursued today. The pursuers are not prehistoric monsters, but leading American scientists, zealously digging in a gypsum cave on the Colorado river, close to the Boulder Dam site.

Not only the claws, bones, hair and hide of the long vanished sloth species but also remnants of a highly developed human civilization in the same era were accidentally discovered, imbedded in the gypsum. And the effort, started in a small manner, now spurs anthropologists and paleontologists to wrest an even more thrilling chapter in civilization's beginnings from the gypsum.

A university trained man was handling mining development work in the cave when long buried guano was found. It was sent to the American Museum of Natural History. Dr. Barnum Brown declared it related to the huge ground sloth, a bygone era. Traces of these have been discovered elsewhere in Nevada and California.

Dr. James Scherer, director of the Southwest Museum at Los Angeles, secured a preliminary appropriation for exploration of the cave. M. R. Harrington, curator of the Southwest Museum, took charge of the explorations. After discovery, the party was joined by Dr. Chester Stock, Carnegie Institute and California Institute of Technology, author of authoritative treatises on the prehistoric ground sloth species. Another member was Dr. E. L. Tullong, paleontologist, University of California.

Indians, under Harrington, descended into the cave, five feet underground, and under four feet of gypsum, discovered a claw, bones, hide and even the coarse brown hair of the North American sloth, a type recognized but little known.

THE FIRST WEAPON The party was thrilled by this discovery. But more thrills were in store, for in the uncovering of what had been the floor of a cavern used by a hard of ground sloths, spearheads, darts and feathers bound with sinew were found near the monster's bones.

The modern equipped scientific party was whisked back through the ages to mankind's first step in developing instruments to hunt a weapon. For these artifacts dated back to the atlatl, or dart thrower, great-grandfather of the bow and arrow.

Well-shaped and tooled spear and dart heads of flint were found. Some of the dart shafts, in gold preservation, were four feet long. Proof that the spears had evolved from the primitive to an artistic stage was shown by the method in which green and red mineral paints were used to decorate the shafts.

HISTORY BACK 20,000 YEARS Dr. Scherer is enthusiastic over what might be disclosed in the cavern.

"The sloth find is amazing," he says. "But of particular importance was the finding of artifacts in almost direct association with the sloth bones and claw. In addition to the darts, there was beautifully made twine of yucca fiber and bound feathers, apparently from the player stick the Indians used to stick in their kill, to form the head dress of the period. And these were within eight inches of the bones."

"This gypsum cavern might also give us the mummified body of a sloth, with darts in it. If this should be found, American history will be pushed back 20,000 years."

The cave in which this discovery was made is about 200 by 80 feet. So far, only a corner has been turned up by the searchers.

The bones were positively identified as those of the North American sloth by a triangular claw. His near relative, Mylodon sloth, whose gargantuan footprints are found in the yard of the Nevada State Prison at Carson City, has a round claw and other characteristic differences.

The North American creature was about as high as an elephant and about 18 feet long, according to scientists' restorations. Its three-digitated paws were used in gathering its herbivorous diet, and with the formidable claws, for defense. Jumps and heavy forearms, and prehensile lips gathering food from the ground, and also from the lower branches of trees when the huge creature reared to its hind quarters.

DESCENDANTS OF SLOTHS Changing weather and floral conditions finally drove the beast from a world in which it no longer fitted. The sloth and with ant eater are among its descendants.

Scientists long knew of the havoc wrought to these animals by the saber-tooth tiger, wolves and other carnivorous beast. But near here, in a gypsum cave, the world is learning that apparently the monsters had their human enemies, who battled the brutes either for food or in defense of their lives.

Just now, Dr. Scherer's party believes the signs, darts, etc., were probably related into the sloth during battles with hunters. The sloths, they believe, sought the cave for safety and there died of their wounds.

TEST APPARATUS TO PHONE FROM ONE PLANE TO ANOTHER

Attempt Will Be Made at Army Air Maneuvers Next Month

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright 1930 By Cons. Press
Washington (CPA)—Whirling through space at speeds of three miles a minute a squadron of planes in military formation will take verbal orders and maintain two-way conversations during army air corps maneuvers next month.

This newest departure in aerial communication will be tested when exercises are staged at Sacramento, Calif., during April. Even the radio audience will be able to tune in on tests, for they will be carried on over broadcast channels, and the national radio networks plan to rebroadcast them.

Experimental two-way telephonic communication between plane and ground is being carried on extensively with excellent results. But plans to plane contact is still highly experimental. It not only will be invaluable from the military point of view, but also for commercial aviation.

WILL BE FEATURE
The radiotelephone experiments will be a featured part of the general tests of latest developments in air tactics and equipment during the maneuvers. Never before have radio experiments been attempted on so extensive a scale.

Because of the limitations as to space and weight, the transmitters on the craft will be of low power.
Consequently the novel experience of tuning in directly on the military verbal exchanges while the planes are flying "wide open" will be confined to listeners in localities near the scene of operations. But both the National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting system plan to re-broadcast some experiments. The date and time for the demonstrations have not yet been set definitely.

"We expect some interesting results from these tests," declared F.
Trubee Davidson, assistant secretary of war for aviation. "This method of aerial communication is still highly experimental, but it is a long step forward from the day when pilots dropped messages in tubes and received instructions by means of panels placed on the ground."

The schedule for the radio tests is a rigid one from the scientific point of view. The fast pursuit planes which fly at speeds of three miles a minute will take verbal orders from the squadron leader and hold conversations with huge bombers throughout the air at 125 miles an hour or receive verbal reports from speedy observation planes far away.

Apparatus used on bombardment attack and observation planes have ranges of more than 35 miles, while pursuit planes can maintain vocal communication over distances of from 15 to 20 miles. The planes also carry regular radiotelegraph equipment for code communications.

These have a far longer range.

Both of the national networks will also plan to broadcast descriptions of the "air defense of San Francisco" which will climax the maneuvers.
This grand finale, which will include the laying down of smoke curtains over the harbor entrance by the planes, thus closing the Golden Gate from "prying eyes" will make an exceptionally interesting word picture for radio listeners.

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS IN IRISH PROGRAM

Four members of the Appleton high school faculty presented a St.
Patrick's day program in the high school auditorium yesterday afternoon. Those who took part were Leland Delforge, Herbert Helble, Clement Ketchum and Joseph Shields. Russell Wichman and Clement Holtz accompanied the musical numbers which were sung.

Mr. Ketchum sang the following numbers: "Irish Names" by Hilton-Turvey, "Macushla" by MacMur-rough, and "Miss Kitty O'Toole" by Proctor. Mr. Shields sang "Mother Machree" and "A Little Bit of Heaven" by Ball and "Beside an Open Fireplace" by Denniker-Osborne.

There were two quartet numbers:
"Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms" by Moore and "My Wild Irish Rose" by Oleott.

WEEK'S BUILDING STILL BELOW 1929 FIGURES

Although last week's building permit business showed a healthy improvement over any week in the past three months, it failed to compare with the same period last year. Last week John N. Wetland, building inspector, issued nine permits totalling $10,755, including one store and one residence permit. During the same week last year permits aggregated $29,150. The list included eight new residences, and one filling station.

WOOD CONFIDENT PLAY IS SUCCESS

Says Critics Aren't Always Right When They Pan His Show

BY WARD MOREHOUSE
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
New York (CPA)—"Well, I see by the papers that you have another bust," I remarked to A. H. Woods, as I came upon him in the stillness of his study atop the Eltinge theatre, his gaze fixed upon the blond loveliness of Hazel Dawn, smiling down at him from the eastern wall. He toyed with the gold-plate desk telephone and flipped his cigar ashes into a star-shaped tray of jade and ivory.
Recently presented him by an old employee, Lowell Sherman.

"Yes, sucker," he said amiably,
"the boys just kicked hell out of my play, didn't they? One fellow on a Brooklyn paper didn't pan it, so we're going to invite him back and give him another chance. Well, I suppose you came in here to tell me that this ain't my best season. Go ahead, out with it."

"Mr. Woods," I said, "if this play downstairs, 'Love, honor and betray,' doesn't prove—er—let's see—if it doesn't prove what we might call successful, it will be, will it not, your fifth reverse of the current theatrical year?" Alice Brady is the play star.

"Sweetheart," Mr. Woods grunted,
"your arithmetic is lousy. It will be flop No. 6. If those Pulitzer fellows get around to giving a medal for the most fold-ups of the year, they gotta consider A. H."

"I'll tell you what I got—I got a little show that will have to build.
You know, I'll have to play along with it. The critics didn't like 'The Yellow Ticket,' did they? Well, that ran a ye—well, it ran six months, anyhow. And how the fellows panned 'The Shogun's Ghost.' Remember that one? Yeah, they razed it, they razed it so hard that Johnnie Colton, after reading the notices, got me on the phone to say goodbye. He was shooting himself. I said, 'wait a minute, Johnnie, I may join you.'"

"So I phoned the box office just to see. Well, the damn thing sold out and before the end of the week Martin Beck, who got me to book it in his house, sent me orchids and came in and kissed me. No, sucker, you can't tell about the show just by business. I may revive 'Getting Gertie's Garter' any day now."

LIGHT SNOW FALLS IN ROCKY MOUNTAIN AREA

Denver, Colo. (AP)—A light blanket of spring snow today covered a portion of the Rocky mountain section, while to the east, particularly in Kansas, rain aided spring crops materially.

The snow pelted nearly all of Colorado and much of Wyoming and the storm continued down the eastern tier of the Rockies into New Mexico and northeastern Arizona. A falling mercury made streets slippery and resulted in traffic accidents.

There was no doubt that the early spring disturbance was a boon to ranchers who pointed out it would materially aid the germination of seed already in the ground.

Montana, visited by a spring storm Sunday, received no more precipitation over the 24 hour period but temperatures which have been genial for weeks were markedly lower. Havre was hardest hit with a minimum of 5 degrees below zero but in most of the state the mercury stood about freezing during the night.

13 INJURED WHEN THEY ARE THROWN INTO PIT

Longview, Wash. (AP)—Thirteen workmen were thrown 35 feet into a pit when a concrete form at the Long Bell Lumber company's log pond here collapsed last night. Ten men suffered only slight injuries while three were seriously hurt.
Those in a serious condition are C.

FOR COLDS— ALKALINIZE YOUR SYSTEM

Doctors everywhere are prescribing this new treatment for colds; and it is delighting thousands by the quick relief it brings when used consistently.

Begin when you feel a cold coming. Take a tablespoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water, morning, noon and night, the first day. Do the same thing the second day. Then take only at night.

Colds reduce the alkalinity of your system. That's what makes you feel sore, feverish, weak, half-sick from them. Phillips Milk of Magnesia is alkali in harmless, palatable form.
It relieves the symptoms of colds by restoring the alkalinity of your system.

For fifty years, this pleasant alkaline has been famous as an anti-acid. Doctor prescribe Phillips Milk of Magnesia; hospitals use it; millions know how it relieves sour-stomach, gas, indigestion and other symptoms of over-acidity. All drug stores recommend it. 25c and 50c bottles, with full directions for its many uses.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the C. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875. adv.

Uncle Sam Starts Census Count April 2; New Queries Will Delve In Economics

Washington (AP)—Uncle Sam is preparing to count noses again.
An army of 100,000 census-takers will begin knocking at house doors throughout the country April 2 in the nation's 15th decennial count of its population.

Many new questions, along with the old ones, are to be asked this time. The 1930 census will delve deeply into the country's economic life as well as providing the usual basis for reapportionment of seats in the house of representatives.

At least 24 questions have been prepared for each interview, and each person quizzed may answer without fear that family figures will be made public. The law imposes severe penalties if secrecy is not kept by the enumerators.

One new question asks the value of a home, if owned, or the monthly rental, if rented. Answers to this will make possible a classification of families' buying power.

Seeking the relative age at marriage of persons in different racial and economic groups, the government's agents will ask "age at first

MEASLE PATIENTS

Dangerous to Let Sick Children Up, State Doctor
Warns

Madison (AP)—The advent of the marble playing season and measles cases are synonymous, Dr. H. M.
Gullford said in a radio address over WHA here Tuesday. He is director of the bureau of communicable diseases of the state board of health.

"A village or small town may escape measles for several years," he said, "but in the summing up of all communities the state has a wave of it every two or three years, with a minor prevalence in the years between."

One of the really dangerous aspects of measles is the danger of pneumonia, Dr. Gullford explained.
To this, he added eye and ear trouble, and other complications. In the last five years, Wisconsin has had nearly 100,000 reported cases and 335 measles deaths, or one death to 248 reported cases, the speaker said.

"Every child with measles should be in bed from the start," said Dr.
Gullford, "and this applies to the cold preceding measles, providing a diagnosis is made. The child should remain in bed for at least two days after all fever is gone. A physician should be in attendance. It is frequent to find a child with a mild case running around the house, and this should never occur."

will gather pertinent information on agricultural conditions.

The population will be announced this time by the supervisor of the district upon completion of compilation in any subdivision of his area, rather than in an announcement for the whole country. This will be given after a thorough check has been made by the supervisor of the enumerator's records.

Modern mechanical devices will be used by the census bureau this year on an unprecedented scale to handle the mass of statistics.

AMERICA'S ADVANTAGE

The greatest advantage which America possesses over the Old World is the fact that America has no peasants. This is the conclusion of Bertrand Russell, eminent British philosopher, voiced in an article in a recent issue of The Outlook following an extended trip through the United States.

"The peasant everywhere," says Mr. Russell, "is cruel, avaricious, conservative, and inefficient."

It is gratifying, of course, to know we are so well off. Mr. Russell, however, goes on to enlarge upon this theme. His remarks are worth listening to. Here is an extract. "I have seen orange groves in Sicily and orange groves in California; the contrast represents a period of about 2000 years. Orange groves in Sicily are remote from trains and ships; the trees are old and gnarled and beautiful; the methods are those of classical antiquity. The men are ignorant and semi-savage, mongrel descendants of Roman slaves and Arab invaders; what they lack in intelligence towards trees they make up for by cruelty to animals."

So much for Sicily; and California? Here is what Mr. Russell has to say: "In a California orange grove the Garden of the Hesperides seems very remote. The trees are all exactly alike, carefully tended and at the right distance apart. The oranges, it is true, are not all exactly of the same size, but careful machinery sorts them so that automatically all those in one box are exactly similar. They travel along with suitable things being done to them by suitable machines at suitable points until they enter a suitable refrigerator car in which they travel to a suitable market. The machine stamps the word 'Sunkist' upon them, but otherwise there is nothing to suggest that nature had any part in their production."

This is an interesting contrast. The Old World has its beauty—an instinctive beauty, one might say, expressing itself in a thousand little details, cradling all life in greater or lesser degree. The New world lacks that beauty—but it has efficiency, which might, also, almost be called instinctive. Some of us miss that Old world beauty. The tremendous number of Americans who go to Europe every year bears witness to that. But we cannot help ourselves, and there is no use crying about it.

By striving for utility we have at least, as Mr. Russell points out, escaped from some of the unpleasant things that go with that Old world beauty. We have set ourselves free, to a certain extent, from the old tyranny of nature. We have made it possible for the race to shape its own future with its own hands. To be sure, this often makes for ugliness. But the ugliness need not be everlasting. As long as we remember that we are on the way toward something new and fine, all will be well with us.

FLIVVER AIRPLANES

We think our airplanes are pretty good nowadays. The little ones as well as the big ones seem marvels of mechanical ingenuity and power. But W. B. Stout, head of the organization that makes the Ford-Stout planes, thinks we have hardly begun yet.

He looks forward especially to the development of a small, convenient plane for private owners. The first practical plane of that sort will be comparable to "the old one-lung automobile, bought only by the wealthy man as a sporting venture." But as buyers increase in number and models are improved and quantity production becomes possible, "the price of planes will be lower than that of the average automobile, and with the wealth created by this production, the man of average means can own his plane also."

This is a suggestive line of thought. The automobile is generally regarded today as the chief factor in producing the vast business expansion and general prosperity of recent years. Will the next great era of prosperity be created by the airplane?

POLITICAL PROSECUTIONS

According to a survey made by the American Civil Liberties union, individuals were brought into court in 1929 on charges ranging from "failure to treat the American flag with respect" to criminal syndicalism. There were 228 free speech cases during the year, fewer than in 1928. There were more strike cases. Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illinois and California prosecuted several individuals under sedition and criminal syndicalism laws, the first political prisoners in this country since 1924.

During the year 52 meetings, chiefly in New York, were broken up by the police. There was mob violence in five communities as compared with only one the previous year. There were 11 lynchings, the same number as in 1928.

Two persons of some prominence, Rosika Schwimmer of peace ship fame and Douglas C. MacIntosh of Yale, were refused citizenship because they would not take the usual oath to bear arms for this country. State troops were used in three southern states during strikes. In one state seven persons were killed, 24 wounded and 13 prosecuted because of labor disturbances.

It is a bad record from one standpoint. Liberal Americans would like to feel that all civil liberties were guaranteed to all persons in the country, whatever their political theories. On the other hand, it is probably a fairly good record. The country is large, and these events involved few persons on each side in proportion to the whole population.

SCRAPPING NAVAL JUNK

Looking into the large tonnage which the American delegation at London has offered to scrap in the disarmament game, Frank H. Simonds, a leading American expert, analyzed it as follows:

One item presented for scrapping is "more than 250,000 tons of destroyers hurriedly constructed after we came into the war, to deal with German submarines. These boats long ago were dismissed as effective war tonnage, and may be seen gently rotting and rusting on mud flats in many harbors."

Another item is "made up of 75,000 tons of cruisers past the age limit of 20 years and no longer included in the list of effective ships."

Together, these war babies make up more than 325,000 tons of the American 1,200,000 tons. They are actually no more than ghost ships, to furnish scrapping material for conference purposes.

Now, if the other naval powers are willing to give the United States credit for these "war babies," all right. And if the United States in turn is willing to give them credit for their own naval junk, all right. Junk cancels junk. If there is to be any scrapping, go ahead and scrap the obsolete warships. Ford, or somebody else, may build automobiles out of them.

It is not necessary to scrap good, modern warships, which have cost good money and in which the owners have a natural pride. But Americans will be very sorry if the sacrifice of such naval ciphers is made an excuse for a costly program of new construction to bring navies up to a theoretical parity. Americans have hoped that the parity of effective warships would be brought down.

AN INDIAN GESTURE

The chamber of princes at New Delhi—the Indian House of lords—expresses its official disapproval of separation from the British empire. This does not settle the matter. The independence movement is popular in character, and naturally repugnant to petty potentates whose authority is upheld by British power. But the princes probably haven't much more to say about government in India than the lords have in England. Nevertheless the action is comforting to Great Britain and helps a little to quiet the separatist propaganda.

India, according to its upper house, "welcomes the attainment by British India of its due place among the dominions forming the British commonwealth of nations at the earliest date possible, consistent with the necessary safeguards and reservations with respect to the different interests in the country." This is certainly diplomatic and safe. Dominion status, somewhat modified from the status of Canada to fit the peculiar and complex situation in India, is probably the best fate for that ancient and populous land.

The King of England has the following official title: His Majesty George V. by the grace of God, of Great Britain, Ireland, and the British Dominions beyond the Seas, King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India.

A woman must be 30 years old to vote in England.

The Post-Mortem

ALL IS quiet on the Appleton front. There is no news of Hortense. Ramblin' Red and the Peddler are quiet. The Coroner is walking around with a dazed, happy look. He has been allowed to take off his red flannels. The Keeper of the Royal Broom reported that he saw a robin but he couldn't prove it. Sunday afternoon opened the hiking season.

Will somebody please throw a bomb.

The golf fever is all ready beginning to claim its victims. "Nevertheless," remarked the Kitchen Cynic, "you needn't expect to shoot a better game this year, the new golf ball isn't big enough for you yet."

The British sense of humor is beautifully demonstrated in the remark made by Queen Mary the other day just after she had visited a London pub. (Saloon, for the benefit of the Outburst who doesn't understand these things.)

"I have enjoyed myself immensely," said Queen Mary, "I think it's a splendid place, so cozy and homey."

What made you say that, Mary?

"The automobile," says Dr. Harvey T. Wiley, "is the poorest exercise known."

Obviously the doctor has never changed a tire or walked after gas.

Oh!

In Appleton, the coming of Spring is noted by melting snow, rain, new clothes and so on. In the university district at Madison it's characterized by midnight serenades echoed by the 2 a. m. drunks.

THE PROGRESS OF CIVILIZATION, NO. 6492

"Ellyria, Ohio—Clifford Hoose, 29, . . . pleaded guilty . . . (a theft of 10 cents) . . . the judge gave him a sentence of 10 years in the penitentiary for the ten cent theft."

And Al Capone, gangster of them all, just released from the Philadelphia cooler for carrying a gun, is returning to Chicago to resume business operations. Sentence? Al received a two months deduction from his year's sentence because of good behavior.

We thought we saw Hortense buzzing at the window yesterday, and we tossed a newspaper in that direction. The stranger immediately flew away. No, it wasn't Hortense.

Today's Anniversary

CLEVELAND'S BIRTH

On March 18, 1837, Grover Cleveland, twenty-second and twenty-fourth president of the United States, was born at Caldwell, N. J.

When his father died soon after the family moved to New York state, young Cleveland was induced by an uncle to make his home in Buffalo. Here he studied law and in 1859 was admitted to the bar. Four years later he became assistant district attorney for Erie county. Subsequently he became sheriff of the county, mayor of Buffalo and governor of New York.

In each of these offices Cleveland demonstrated such good judgment, firmness and independence that he was easily the outstanding Democratic candidate for president in 1881. Elected after a hard campaign against James G. Blaine, Cleveland showed the same vigor and spirit that characterized his earlier offices. The creation of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the admission of four new states were the outstanding measures of his first administration.

His second term proved to be one of the most remarkable in American politics, and an event which helped make it so was his Venezuelan message sent to Congress in 1895. Great Britain, which for a long time had been encroaching on the territory of Venezuela, refused to arbitrate the subject. Cleveland's impulsive message hinted war, and England, thoroughly upset, accepted the arbitration. This was called "the most signal victory for America diplomacy in modern times."

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Tuesday, March 21, 1905

The Young Men's Sunday Evening club of the Congregational church was to celebrate its thirtieth anniversary the following Sunday with an elaborate program.

Miss Nellie H. Foss had gone to Chicago to attend a dressmakers' convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Buchman had returned from Milwaukee.

Mrs. Samuel Marshall was to entertain at dinner that night in honor of Mrs. F. Clark, Red Oak, Ia., who was visiting in Appleton as the guest of Mrs. Louis Marshall.

Invitations for the wedding of Max J. Hammel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hammel, to Miss Rose E. Hertz, Terre Haute, Ind., were soon to be issued. The wedding was to take place April 27 at Terre Haute.

The Rev. Gabriel Messner, Detroit, provincial of the Capuchin order, was in Appleton inspecting the Capuchin convent.

The ladies of the B'nai Zion society held a fancy dress party at Knights of Pythias hall the preceding night.

TEN YEARS AGO

Tuesday, March 16, 1920

Twenty-five persons were injured when train No. 116 of the Northwestern road was derailed between Appleton and Fond du Lac the preceding night.

C. C. Nelson returned the previous day from a trip to Shawano and other points on business.

Dr. W. H. Meeker was in Green Bay on business the day before.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Wentink were spending the week in Chicago.

Mrs. Lee Keenan entertained at a 6 o'clock dinner at her home on Morrison-st the preceding evening in honor of her birthday anniversary.

Application for a marriage license was made that day by Gus Haterbecker and Augusta Zuehlke, both of Appleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jones entertained at their home at 1081 Eighth-st the preceding evening in honor of Henry Lerche, who was to leave for Chicago to make his home.

Announcement had been received in Appleton of the approaching marriage of Miss Rena Evelyn Hammel, daughter of Mrs. Iva Hammel, Milwaukee, formerly of Appleton, to Jacob Guelte, Chicago, which was to take place at the Hotel Pfister, Milwaukee, March 23.

CARBOLIC ACID AS IT WAS

One day a chemist caught me napping. I hope few if any readers will remember it, but my chemist friend came at me thru the cri business.

Said he, if you insist on calling the common cold "cri," a term which you admit you invented, then, if you are consistent you will call carbolic acid by its correct name, phenol. The common cold, you argue, has nothing to do with exposure to cold. Well, carbolic acid is not an acid, it is an alcohol or something like that. So you must never again refer to phenol as "carbolic acid," if you want people to adopt and use your term "cri."

I haven't presented the chemist's argument very well, but that was the gist of it, and I squirmed around for a while and could not think up a good retort, so I printed a reply conceding the logic and fairness of his position and acknowledging that phenol was the proper term and that we should not call it carbolic acid. Oh, when I'm wrong and caught in a bad corner I'm willing to make some concession in order to crawl out of it.

But now that we're all clear I want to reconsider. I was just a little hasty in trucking to my chemist friend. I should have known better, but you must remember this chemist threw a mean argument and I suppose he dazed me. Anyway carbolic acid is an acid and I do hope that ordinary chemist will see this and grasp the fact. Carbolic acid is a weak acid, but it is an acid, and it is a very useful one.

Just think! I've found a band of happy little fellows. Gee, I'm glad! So often, when I travel around, no real good little fellows are found. I sometimes get so lonesome that it makes me feel real sad.

"But now I'm pretty sure that we will be as happy as can be. I'm going to take you on a trip that you will never forget. I know it will be something new and there'll be lots of things to do. Just heaps of fun and not one thing to make one of you fret."

"Oh, that sounds thrilling," Scouty cried. "But when are we to end this ride? We've driven now, in your machine, for miles and miles and miles. Not once we've stopped. Alas, alas! Suppose we run out of gas?" This made the Tynmites and the Travel Man break into smiles.

Said Clowny, "Oh, we're safe and sound as long as all the wheels go round. Our new friend knows how to run his own machine. I guess. He's been real kind to us, thus far. I bet no matter where we are, that he will make quite sure that we don't get into a mess."

They finally reached big New York town. The Travel Man then drove right down to where some great big boats were hugging to the docks with ease. "Now, here's the big surprise in store," the Tynmites heard the big man roar. "We're going to go aboard a boat and travel overseas."

"Hurrah! Hurrah!" the Tynmites cried. "Oh, this will be a wondrous ride." They cheered until each one was rather husky in the throat. Then up the gangplank they all ran along with Mister Travel Man. A whistle blew real long and loud. "Twas time to start the boat."

(The Tynmites have fun on board the boat in the next story.)

A book borrowed by one North Carolinian of another has been returned after 40 years. The current issue of the Saturday Evening Post ought to hold the borrower for the next 40 years.

Sir Harry Lauder, Scotch comedian, broke a rib when he fell in his bath tub, the other day. He might have been without an occupation had he fallen on his funny bone.

I sit at typewriter eight hours a day and I seem to be getting hump-backed from leaning over so much. Do you think shoulder braces advisable for me? (Mrs. B. G.)

Answer—No, some simple setting up exercises each night and morning, and a brisk walk for fifteen or twenty minutes each noontime, will counteract the ill effects.

Thin Lunch
What do you think of drinking nothing but milk for lunch at noon? I carry my lunch and have become so tired of all sorts of sandwiches . . . sometimes I eat an apple or an orange besides my pint of milk for lunch. (J. G.)

Answer—A pint of milk is fine, as part of the noon lunch, but it is not adequate alone. Take some crackers, cookies or bread and butter with the milk. Then whatever fresh fruit you like to finish off. A girl needs a fairly substantial noon lunch if she wants to keep that youthful look. Skipping on the lunch tends to make 'em look worn, old and seedy.

Sweets Do Not Cause Pimples
I feel inclined to disagree with your statement that pimples are not caused by sweets, candy and sugar. I am 19 and have often experimented on myself, and invariably when I indulge in a lot of candy or sweets I have a crop of pimples. . . . (C. R.)

Answer—Not a few physicians and skin specialists think as you do about it. I merely gave my personal opinion, which is that sugar, candy and sweets have nothing to do with the common acne, or blackheads and pimples of youth. I should be glad to send you instructions and advice, if you will inclose stamped envelope bearing your address and mention your trouble.

FILLING OUR RAVINE

Editor of the Appleton Post-Crescent—In an editorial of the Appleton Review of March 14, enumerating the benefits conferred upon Appleton by the present city government, it says complacently "We have new streets where ravines have been filled."

Now in my opinion and in that of all beauty-lovers, the filling up of our beautiful ravines must ever appear as a most deplorable and stupid achievement. At a time when some eastern cities are spending large sums to make artificial ravines for their parks, our city fathers are blithely tossing rubbish into our natural ones. "If it were done when 't is done, then 't were well it were done quickly," but the process takes many decades. When I was a little girl, the big ravine under College Avenue at the west end, was a German beer garden; not the boisterous place that the name may imply.

(There is far worse carousing going on at the present time in the heart of the city hall, I am told.) This garden was a spot reminiscent of the old world, with tables and chairs under the trees, a small bridge, pavilions and summer houses, one of the first attempts at landscape gardening in Appleton; a real joy to those passing over the bridge to and from that part of town known as "the Chute." Gaze on that picture and then on this! For more than thirty years that place has been a common dump and is likely to be so for another fifteen years, for in their zeal for doing away with ravines, the city government spoils one ravine and then starts the same work on another.

It is easy to point to improvement caused naturally by the growth of Appleton, as the result of the German form of government, because, except for the few years of commission form, it is the only kind we have had. This does not prove that another form would not have done as much or more to improve and beautify the city.

There are still some few ravines that are being kept free of rubbish. Let us vote for a government that may appreciate and protect them.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—Few people visit the capitol and leave without first going down the Potomac to Mount Vernon for an inspection of the home of George Washington.

Money collected from these visitors amounts to almost $100,000 a year—25 cents for each person entering the grounds. Mount Vernon is open every day to the public except on Sunday.

Not the United States, but a group of women owns the home of Washington. To this group, the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association, the Union, goes the $100,000 and the right to expend it in any way it sees fit.

It has been frequently suggested that the home of Washington should be the property of the federal government. Yet for the past 75 years the title has remained undisturbed.

URGENT FEDERAL OWNERSHIP
In 1922, the 200th anniversary of Washington's birth will be observed with great display in the capital. In view of this occasion, a move to have the federal government acquire Mount Vernon has been launched. Rep. Allen T. Treadway of Massachusetts is the leader.

On the eve of Washington's birthday this year he dropped in the house hopper a bill calling for such action. Careful to say that he would not urge immediate action, he did, however, outline these reasons for suggesting government ownership:

Federal ownership would obviate the possibility of an admission fee being charged to the place.

The government is spending millions of dollars on memorials to Washington, but the one place where his memory is enshrined is not government property.

To the ordinary layman, next to church attendance, a visit to the home and tomb of Washington would be more of an inspiration than any other use to which a part of the Sabbath could be put.

Every government vessel passing Mount Vernon offers a salute. It seems somewhat out of place that that respect should be shown to something located on private property.

OBJECTIONS, TOO
Many are the objections heard in the past to such a plan. Foremost among them is that the government once had an opportunity to acquire Mount Vernon and failed to take advantage of it.

EARNINGS OF WATER DEPARTMENT WERE LESS IN LAST YEAR

Decrease Resulted from Fewer Number of New Customers

A surplus of $10,411.33 over all operating expenses, $7,559.74 less than in 1928, was earned during the past year by the Appleton Water Works, according to the annual report of the city water commission. The decrease in surplus was due primarily to the smaller number of new customers added during the past year, it is reported.

Income from operations during the past year, including commercial and industrial sales, fire protection and other sources, totalled $144,434.23, while in 1928 they totalled $143,081.03. The total operating expenses during the past year totalled $89,815.34, while in 1928 they totalled $82,431.11. The net operating revenue last year was $54,618.89, while in 1928 it was $60,649.92. The gross income totalled $60,780.35 in 1929, while in 1928 it aggregated $65,887.98.

The surplus from operations on Jan. 1, 1929, was $49,838.11, while the surplus unappropriated as of Jan. 1, 1930, totalled $60,249.44, the report shows.

The total value of the water works on Jan. 1, 1930, as represented by the book of value of all the assets was $1,213.16 compared to $1,331,958.67 on Jan. 1, 1929, an increase of $32,254.49. This increase in assets is primarily due to the installation of new mains, hydrants, services and meters. The only other large additions to the asset accounts was the construction of a new alum bin.

BIGGER EQUITY
Under the water works' liabilities, the city's equity last totalled $777,373.93, while in 1928 it aggregated $731,863.11. Bonds outstanding at the end of 1929 totalled $155,000, while at the end of 1928 they aggregated $219,000, a reduction of $64,000. Special assessments in 1929 totalled $156,265.52, while in 1928 they aggregated $113,522.27.

Under appropriations to municipal funds, 5 per cent on city equity totalled $37,730.88 last year, while in 1928 it totalled $35,002.50. The sinking fund appropriation last year totalled $4,784.50, while in 1928 it totalled $3,855.85.

The most important event in the financial history of the water works during the past year was the establishing of a new hydrant rental charge. This charge which has been at a set figure of $34,000 since 1921 was increased to practically $40,000 per year. There was also a provision made that the city pay $10 a year additional for each new hydrant set and 10 cents per lineal foot of main installed between hydrants. The new rate took effect on Jan. 1, 1930.

The reserve fund was increased to $130,000 in the past year by the purchase of $20,000 worth of municipal bonds. This fund represents cash available in the event of any sudden destruction of the plant or equipment necessitating a large outlay of money on short notice.

LESS INSTALLATION
During 1929 the department installed 14,910 feet of mains, a decrease of 16,747 feet from 1928, when a total of 31,657 feet were installed. Ac-

ANNOUNCE NATIONAL CHAMBER CONVENTION

The annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce will be held in Washington, D. C., from April 28 to May 2, inclusive, according to word received here by Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the local chamber of commerce. The theme of the 1930 conference will be "What's Ahead For Business?" Local delegates to the convention will be selected within the next few weeks, according to Mr. Corbett.

6 ELECTRIC PERMITS ISSUED LAST WEEK

Only six electrical permits were issued last week by Louis Luebke, electrical inspector. The same number was issued the week before. Since the inauguration of the new building code last October, all contractors must obtain a permit from the electrical inspector before installing any wiring or electrical appliances.

According to present indications this item will decrease to about 10,000 feet during 1930. A decrease in building construction has caused a downward tendency in main installation, it is reported.

During 1929 a pitometer survey was conducted, which revealed many small leaks, mostly in service lines, which have been repaired during the past season. The survey also revealed that there is considerable loss of revenue due to under registration of large meters.

There has been a tremendous decrease in monthly pumpage during 1929. The total pumpage for the past year was 647,370,000 gallons, a decrease of 100,000,000 gallons from the previous year. The reason for this decrease is due to the repairing of small leaks and decreased use of water for putting out fires.

Taking the total amount of water passed through the meters, 61.17 per cent of the total pumpage is accounted for, while if the water used for sewer flushing, for extinguishing fires, paving and other construction is taken into consideration, it will increase the accounted for water to 75 per cent.

The Story of Sue

MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THERE was vibrant stillness as Sybil stepped through the door of the room where the group of people sat in the Merryman home, vibrant because of the unsaid words that trembled in the air.

Sybil's face was pale and her lips were set in a thin scarlet line.

The time had come now when Sue could exonerate Sybil. She was glad that she could do it in front of the girl. After all, it was a terrible thing to be under sentence for something which you hadn't done!

Mechanical greetings were exchanged in a few words while Sue waited for the girl to sit down so she could start. Sybil spoke first, though, interrupting Sue's words.

"Well, Sue, I suppose you think you've beaten me at my own game, don't you?" Then her voice broke. "But I could swear till dooms day I didn't have anything to do with your disappearance."

"I know you didn't," Sue answered quickly. "Not one thing! The kid nappers told me you didn't. They didn't ask me first, and then decided that they could work on...."

Mrs. Becker, if they took me. That's why they didn't let you know we stopped to ask directions."

"Is that true, Sue?" Jack asked. She nodded.

"Then I beg your pardon, Sybil. I'm sorry. I wouldn't have accused you falsely for the world."

Judge Thornton, silent until now, spoke. "And I regret it as deeply as Jack. It is almost unpardonable to think of the misery that that chance remark has brought."

"Then they did tell you I was innocent? You're sure you believe me?" Sybil asked. "....." She started to cry and the judge patted her shoulder comfortingly. But Jack spoke again.

"Remember, Sybil, once upon a time you purposely put Sue in a false position? It isn't much fun when the tables are reversed, is it? I'm mighty sorry, but I hope you've learned a lesson."

"Jack!" His father's voice was stern and it cut the close air of the room with a rapier thrust. "You are being exceedingly ungentlemanly."

Barbara slipped her arm through Jack's and smiled softly. In that glance Sue caught the pride of possession. Barbara had a right to stand with Jack now, no matter what course she took. While she.... she reflected that the old struggle was beginning again.

Harry's father had been very sympathetic and very kind all evening. He was a large man, big, not fat like Harry, with shrewd gray eyes which missed nothing that happened although he himself said little.

"Well, manage the trial very quickly and send those boxes where they belong," he told Sue when he left. "I'm mighty sorry you had to get mixed up in this fracas, and grateful to you for helping."

In her own room upstairs, at last, with Corinne curled into a little ball on the other side of the bed, Sue lay and thought. It was strange that life could swing back its usual setting so readily. She had thought that it would never be the same again.

Corinne stirred and then spoke. "Sue, are you awake? I want to tell you something."

NEXT: Corinne confides in Sue.

BOARD DISAGREES ON SUBWAY CLAIMS

BELIEVE INFLUX -OF GOLD TO U. S. WILL STOP SOON

Rise in Price of Japanese Yen Will Stop Flow of Yellow Metal

BY PRESTON S. KRECKER
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press

New York—(CPA)—Indications are that the influx of foreign gold which started in January and still is in progress will decrease. Much of the previous metal has come to this country from Japan. Within the last month Japanese exchange has been rising rapidly, with the result that it now is close to a point where shipments of gold from the sunrise kingdom would no longer be profitable.

There are other reasons why the Japanese gold movement probably is about over. These shipments were by no means entirely due to natural requirements of foreign trade. They consisted largely of a special operation fostered by the Japanese government to protect the yen currency against depreciation of gold payments by that country.

There is reason to believe that Japan has sent about all of the gold earmarked for that purpose at this time.

The other principal source of the fresh receipts of foreign gold has been Brazil. In that case the movement has been due largely to the severe decline in the coffee market and inability of Brazil to obtain fresh credits.

CLOSED SOURCE

The low price of Brazil's principal commodity of foreign loans has closed one important source of funds. As a result Brazilian exchange has dropped and that country has been forced to send us gold in payment of balances.

As a result of this further import movement, together with release of foreign gold held under earmark for countries abroad, it is estimated that the gain in the yellow metal by the United States this quarter will aggregate nearly $150,000,000. The gain is quite the opposite of predictions made at the close of last year, when gold was going out and economists were predicting a further heavy export movement this year.

It is to be noted that very little of our additional gold has come from Europe but the prospects failed to reckon with the possibility of a gold influx from Japan and South America. Altogether Japan is sending us about $75,000,000 while Brazil has shipped $27,000,000, with more in prospect. A large amount of gold, estimated at $25,000,000 has been released from Earmark by the federal reserve bank of New York and that metal is European gold hurried here for account of foreign countries.

GOLD REDUCED

It is estimated that earmarked gold has been reduced to less than $100,000,000.

The influx of foreign gold has been sufficiently large to have a material effect on the credit situation and has been the easy money factor towards creating the easy money conditions which exist here now. One effect has been to reduce the requirements of member banks for reserve credit, with the result that the volume now outstanding is the smallest in about five years.

Shipments of gold in settlement of international balances is a more or less expensive process, as well as involving considerable risk. The cost of transportation, insurance, loss of interest and other items entering into a shipment sometimes runs into high figures, depending on the amount of the movement.

It was one of the ideas of the founders of the bank of international settlements, recently created with the aid of American bankers, that this first international bank in the world's history some day would function as custodian of an international gold settlement fund, consisting of gold earmarked for account of various countries to be transferred from one account to another as required to settle balances, with the result that actual movement of the gold and thence large expense and risk would be avoided.

SMART HATS MADE OF STRAW, FELT

Crown Is of Black Straw While Close-fitting Brim
Is of Felt

New York—(CPA)—Black straw and felt make up one of the smartest styles of hats of the spring season. The crown is of straw. The close-fitting rim of the hat is felt in back and straw in front, for no good reason at all except to be different. If you like, you may wear with this a thin black veil which is just as long in front as the point at which the hat hits the neck in back.

Hardly has Paris finished denouncing the ensemble as "too studied," than she goes ensemble again in a different way. Short coat and frock often do not match in pattern, though they sometimes do in shade; that is, a short coat is often in plain color if the frock is figured and its shade may be the same as the background of the frock, though frequently the shade is darker. But to compensate for this leeway, Paris now insists that shoes, stockings and gloves should match.

No doubt the black suit at present beloved of London women is wornly because the skirt is long. But the suit is bound with braid, suggestive somehow of a man's suit and is given a final masculine touch by a white satin waistcoat. Straight lines exclude a nipped-in-waist—and is it smart? Oh, madame!

Girls Outnumber Boys As Prize winners In Post-Crescent's Graduation Contest

Two things are outstanding in the Post-Crescent's Graduation Contest—the first three prize lists show, the contest editor says. One is that the number of girls winning prizes far outnumber the boys and the other is that the number of prize winners from the schools in and about Shiocton far outnumber the number from any other district.

These two facts indicate several things. Either the girls and the schools about Shiocton are much more active and clever than the boys and the other schools in the county—or else they are working much harder and the boys and the other schools are just laying down and letting themselves be beaten.

The contest is not a hard one and the number of prizes which are distributed every week is large enough to enable every rural school student in the county to have a good chance at being one of the lucky ones.

Already 36 half dollars have been distributed by the Post-Crescent—but some boys and girls have won more than one prize. This indicates they are giving a good deal of thought to the contest and that they are anxious to earn their $25 for the trip to Washington next June as early as possible.

Now there are many more prizes to be distributed. Every Friday the Post-Crescent will publish the names of boys and girls who sent in ideas which the contest editor believes are worth a prize.

The only rules in this contest are that ideas must be original and the idea must be of such nature that it can be used in other parts of the county.

The purpose of this contest, the contest editor pointed out, is to help boys and girls earn the $25 which they will need to take them to

CONFIDANTE

By Alice Judson Peale

From the day Hester was born her mother had fought an up-hill fight against illness, hard times and personal unhappiness, and to the little girl, she poured out all her troubles.

By the time that she was six Hester knew entirely too much about bills and mortgages, the unreliability of men and human miseries in general.

She was a queer, over serious little girl who kept indoors and soberly helped her mother dry the dishes and dust the furniture. She never tore a hole in her stocking climbing over a neighbor's fence or took apples from the pantry shelf. She spoke little and what went on behind her eyes could only be guessed, but it is likely that her thoughts were not the usual thoughts of childhood.

Unhappy parents have no business taking their children into their confidence. The problems of grown ups have nothing to do with reality as they touch the child's small world. His parents owe him the fundamental security of love and protection and a stable home. Food and shelter, sunshine and play and love, are things which he should take for granted. His parents must never let him feel struggle or uncertainty involved in providing him with any of these.

The child who is made to feel his parents' burdens either becomes a little old man before he has reached the age of adolescence or a callous, hard little soul who snatches his pleasures in the teeth of hardship with a self protective immunity to the sufferings of others.

Children have plenty of problems of their own. The difficulties of being a child in a grown up world, the problems of growing up, are enough for any child.

15 FARMS LICENSED TO RAISE GAME BIRDS

Madison—(P)—The game bird law created by the last legislature has resulted in the licensing of 15 farms to date, the conservation commission reported today.

Eleven applications for farms are on file and the administration of the new law is considered to be successful by the commission. The licenses cover all varieties of pheasants, wild ducks, wild geese, ruffed grouse, sharp-tailed grouse, pinnated grouse and Hungarian partridge.

Of the licenses thus far granted, one covers a 10-acre tract near Portage. Several farms are licensed in Jefferson and Walworth counties, the largest of which is eight acres.

The bird farm law was created to make possible the propagation of game birds for market consumption. The legislature believed that the law would materially reduce the number of illegal killings of wild game birds.

BUTTER ADVANTAGES WILL BE ADVERTISED

Madison—(P)—Advertisements depicting the value of butter to health have been written by the college of agriculture, University of Wisconsin, to help increase the consumption of butter. It was announced today.

Five advertisements make up a series that will be dispatched throughout the state. The advertisements will appeal to health, food value features, tastiness and medicinal qualities of pure butter.

The "ad" campaign is one result of low butter prices which have been prevalent for more than two months.

“Our Unpublished Selves”

SCRIPTURE

Memory Verse: “Man looketh on the outward appearance, but God looketh on the heart” (I. Samuel 16:7).

Read: I. John 3:1-6.

MEDITATION

By looking on the heart God sees what men do not see. Every man, likewise, sees within himself what no other man can see. For he sees his unpublished self that eludes the public eye. Down under our commonplace, conventional selves, are selves that are not commonplace. There are hidden glories in a man that he has not yet revealed. He walks among men a prince in disguise. He is better than any man knows. This knowledge of what he is an strives to be gives him courage and self-respect and satisfaction. The final basis for self-acceptance is unshaken confidence in one's own integrity and endeavors.

R. C. A. was to receive 14 of the 20 frequencies originally awarded it. It had applied for a total of 40 frequencies, but was denied this request and went to the court on appeal from the commission's decision. Press Wireless was also to get 14 of 20 and Western six.

SIGNED ORDER

Just a month ago the commission adopted an order which in effect granted to Universal R. C. A., Press Wireless, Inc., and the Western Radio Telegraph Co., the four successful applicants for the continental channels, 70 per cent of the channels originally allocated to them prior to last June. It announced it could do this without conflicting with a stay order issued by the court which specified that it must reserve 77 of the limited number of channels until it had cleared up the litigation.

This was done on Feb. 15, but was held confidential. On Feb. 24, when the licenses were signed, Universal obtained them but the others did not, according to the R. C. A. petition. Then four days later, the Mackay Radio Telegraph company, another of the short wave litigants, obtained from the court a second stay order to prevent the commission from issuing the licenses. But, the petition states, Universal already had its licenses, while R. C. A., Press Wireless, Inc., and Western Radio Telegraph got nothing.

Universal already has begun service on some of the 26 frequencies, which constitute the first link of its authorized nationwide system. The system must serve 110 cities by 1932, with the aggregate of 40 channels assigned it, but not yet all licensed. R. C. A. states it would “sustain a great and irreparable injury and would suffer commercial and competitive disadvantage” if Universal got nothing.

BROWNELL TELLS WHAT NORTHLAND COLLEGE IS DOING

Northern Wisconsin Institution Seeks $425,000 Endowment

Dr. J. D. Brownell, president of Northland college at Ashland and former district governor of Rotary International, addressed the Congregational congregation at its Sunday morning service. His subject was A Highway Shall Be There.

Dr. Brownell, who came to Appleton upon the invitation of the church in the Northland College crusade, described the history and policies of the college and gave instances to show what Northland is doing for the students of the cut-over lands of northern Wisconsin who are not in a position to seek an education in institutions farther from home. This year the college, which is the youngest of Congregational colleges in the Mississippi valley, is making a crusade for an endowment of $425,000 through Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, New York and the New England states.

Northland college, explained Dr. Brownell, was founded in 1891 as an academy, by the Rev. E. P. Wheeler, Ashland pastor and the Rev. G. W. Nelson, Wisconsin home mission superintendent, and in 1907 developed into a college. It is located at Ashland, a city of about 12,000, and the commercial center of northern Wisconsin.

The first graduating class in 1912 had three men in it; in 1923 the number was 23. The enrollment in that year was 232. In both the academy and the college. The institutions buildings and equipment have a net worth of $350,000.

PARK BOARD PLANS FOR SPRING WORK

No Big Projects Planned for Future Because of Lack of Funds

Menasha—Playground and park improvement activities during the next three months probably will be limited to routine spring clean-up work at Menasha park, it was decided at a meeting of the park board at Menasha Memorial building Monday night.

It is not likely that any money for a large program will be available before that time, it was pointed out.

The board, however, hopes to establish a playground on the vacant tract of land at the corner of Tayco and Second-sts next summer. The board is contemplating erection of playground equipment and construction of a swimming pool there. The land was secured last year from the city.

Establishment of similar playgrounds in every ward in the city also is planned. Such a program will require several years for completion, it is expected because of a shortage of funds just now.

The Memorial building will be painted both inside and out, benches in the park will be given a new coat of paint, and grounds generally cleaned up. This work will be started in the near future.

AMERICA HOLDS 28 AIR RECORDS

Germany Leads World With 43 Records Out of Total of 113

BY OSCAR LEIDING
Aviation Editor
Washington—(P)—American aviation is wondering whether world records tell the tale of supremacy in the air.

Of 115 official records newly listed for 1930 by the Federation Aeronaoutique Internationale and the National Aeronautic association, for all types of aircraft, the United States holds out 28.

Germany leads with 43 records to her credit. The other holders include France, 25; Great Britain, 8; Switzerland, 8; Italy and Hungary, 2 each; and Poland and Czechoslovakia, 1 each.

The United States is supreme in a single class, refueling of airplanes with the duration record of 420 hours and 17 minutes, set by Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brien, and the distance mark of 9,293 1/2 miles, made by Capt. Lowell H. Smith and J. P. Richter.

A. H. Orlebar's feat of traveling 357,723 miles an hour gives Great Britain the maximum speed record; Willi Neuenhofen, of Germany holds the altitude record of 41,794 feet.

Lieut. Apollo Soucek gave America the seaplane altitude record of 23,465 feet and plans an assault on Neuenhofen's mark. Lieut. T. G. W. Settle and Ensign W. Bushnell hold four balloon records after a single three-day flight.

Of the 26 new records written in to the books at the close of 1929, Germany was responsible for 11; the United States, 7; France, 5; Great Britain, 2, and Poland. Twenty-one of the 23 records held by the United States are old marks.

"Those cigars cost me $10," he replied, "and I can't afford to give them away."—Tit-Bits.

Gangsters Take Another "For A Ride" In Chicago

Chicago—(P)—The scourge of gangland—the "ride"—added another to the long list of north side killings last night.

Peter Bica, who emigrated to America after graduating from the University of Rome, was dragged from a nearby telephone box, a passerby watched the three empty their guns into the already limp body of the victim.

On the day after the body of John (Billiken) Rito was found floating in the Chicago river, police attribute Bica's slaying to a new north side liquor war.

Bica's family, however, disputed the theory that he was allied with any gang.

Rito, police claimed, was a Capone gangster, killed in retaliation for the recent encroachment of the Capone forces on the north side territory of George (Bugs) Moran. Police allied Bica with the Alvin Karpis mob, but now determined, they said, into alcohol cookers affiliated with the Moran gang.

Another gangster is missing, Dennis Bennett, reputed partner of Rito. Police believe he was killed along with Rito.

Guns also roared on the south side—police guns. Two Negro bandits were surprised robbing a delicatessen shop and were killed in a gun battle with a detective squad.

Meantime, Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the association of commerce and only known member of the "secret committee of six," began inquiry into the laws on search warrants and carrying concealed weapons.

This action followed the release of Frank Diamond, notorious Capone gunman, after an indictment charging him with carrying concealed weapons was quashed by Judge Peter M. Schwaba, in criminal court, who decreed that police have no right to search gangsters without warrants.

Beer Baron's Widow at Inquest

Mrs. Florence Diggs-Murphy O'Berta, widow of John "Dingbat" O'Berta, the dapper Chicago beer baron who was slain by gangster enemies, is pictured here at the inquest into his death. When a gunman pumped slugs into O'Berta's body they left Mrs. O'Berta a widow for the second time. Her colorful first mate, "Big Tim" Murphy, was killed several years ago by Chicago racketeers.

Artist Tells Why Hollywood Marriages Go On The Rocks

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright 1930, by Cond. Press
Hollywood—Why do marriages between outstanding artists of the same profession so often go sour?

"Not because of artistic temperament, in its accepted sense," explained Mary Lewis today in her dressing room at the Pantages, "but because of professional ego. Neither artist is 'yessed' at home as each is 'yessed' in public. Both artists consequently look upon home as the one place where full appreciation is lacking—and both are right."

The American prima donna was speaking without animus of her own marriage to Michael Bohan, also a star of the Metropolitan Grand opera company. Miss Lewis, living in California to establish a residence preliminary to application for divorce, is the latest grand opera singer to sign up for the talkies; at a salary which has earned her the title of the $4,000-a-minute girl. She returns soon to New York to complete her operatic contract. Meanwhile, radiantly blonde, though serious-faced, she talked about marriage.

"An artist is necessarily self-centered," said Miss Lewis, "you must concentrate on yourself on your ability, in order to succeed.

"If the artist-wife practices self-abnegation, she will be dissatisfied. If the artist-husband practices self-abnegation, he will develop into a little slave whom his wife doesn't respect. And self-abnegation is not a quality usually found among artists.

Chuck Wiggins Is Carnera's Tenth American Victim

INDIANAPOLIS VET WAS DOPED TO GIVE ITALIAN A BATTLE

Knocked Out of Ring Once Before Final K. O.; Primo's Manager Jubilant

St. Louis—(P)—Chuck Wiggins, Indianapolis boxer, was knocked out of the ring once before his final battle with Primo Carnera, the man mountain from Venice, last night and the Italian won his tenth straight American knockout victory. Wiggins succumbed in the second stanza of a scheduled ten round bout. Wiggins went through the ropes twice in the first minute of the second round. The first time for the count of seven, then the ropes pushed him back into the canvas and the second time prostrate outside the ring.

More than 20,000 persons jammed the arena, and paid upwards of $60.00 to see Wiggins, groggy from a fusillade against which he had no defense, sprawl through the ropes. Carnera, whose other nine fights were held to be setups while Wiggins was badly hooded as his toughest customer, showered rights and lefts to the Hoosier's head and body in the first round, leaving the bald-headed veteran red in body and face. Wiggins failed to land a single punch, although he was in there trying.

Leon See, manager of "the Carnera," was jubilant over his over-size battler's victory. He placed "Sharkey, Dempsey or anybody" as suitable opponents for the Giant's next entry into the ring.

CRAIG RUBY WANTS DRIBBLE BARRED FROM BASKETBALL

Champaign, Ill.—(P)—J. Craig Ruby, University of Illinois basketball coach, believes the dribble should be eliminated from the hardword game.

Commenting on the slowing down of the game, Ruby indirectly blames the dribble, which has been regarded as the flashiest feature of the game. He says the retreating five-man defense, designed to prevent a good dribbler from breaking in for a close shot, was responsible for the delayed or "stalling" offense, resulting in low scores, and lack of speed.

LOS ANGELES ELKS WILL BOWL HERE

West Coast Men and Women Keglers Meet 2 Appleton Teams Wednesday

Two bowling teams from Los Angeles, one of men, the other of women will roll against picked teams from Appleton in an exhibition match Wednesday evening on the Elk alleys. The games are scheduled to go on at 9 o'clock. There will be no admission fee but fans will be asked to subscribe a few nickels in a collection to be taken up.

The invading bowling teams have been down to the Elk national tourney at Chicago and now are staging a round of exhibition matches with teams from various middle west cities.

A team of Appleton women bowlers boasting Ellen Dunn, Leola Dunn, Laura Zittelman, Helen Glaspaw and Pearl Hornke will roll the invading women's teams while C. Currie, F. Johnston, T. Gleason, O. Kunitz, W. Jacobson or Webber will make up the team rolling against the men.

Harris of Chicago, twice a national champion, 5 to 3 in 11 innings; Hall was winner over Ervin D. Tucker, of Dedham, Mass., New England champion, 5 to 3 in 12 innings, and Toledano came from behind to defeat Robert E. Harper of Denver, Rocky Mountain champion, 5 to 4.

FIFTY GRIDDERS OUT FOR M. U. PRACTICE

Milwaukee—(P)—Fifty candidates for places on the Golden Avalanche turned out for the first day of spring football training day at Marquette university yesterday. They put in a heavy duty at building up a formidable machine for the 1930 season.

Coaches John Taylor and Frank J. Murray dispelled any suspicion that spring training was to be diluted with spring fever this year and put the half-hundred through a dizzy workout. Marquette's football coaches said there was to be "no fooling" in this spring since the first month of the fall semester included three stiff games for the eleven.

LEN SHIRES FARMED OUT BY N. Y. GIANTS

San Antonio—(P)—Two heads have been lopped off in a manner of speaking, by Manager John McGraw of the New York Giants, and one of them belonged to Len Shires, brother of the "great Shires."

Shires, an infielder, and Art Veltman, who can catch or play the outfield, have been sent to the Bridgeport club of the Eastern league, Giant farm.

Thursday the finals in wrestling will be staged and Friday in boxing. Coach Clarence H. Rosenmeyer, the Viking wrestling and boxing coach is handling the tournament.

PANIC VICTIM SEEKS DAMAGES FROM MULLEN

Chicago—(P)—Promoter Jim Mullen still hears echoes of the near panic which occurred during the Jackie Fields-Young Jack Thompson fight in the Coliseum, March 25, 1929.

The practice in a suit for $25,000 damages has been filed by Maurice Young, who claims to have been injured internally during the uproar, against Mullen and the Coliseum building corporation, almost a year after the incident.

CINCINNATI REDS BOLSTERED WITH NEW BOSS, PLAYERS

Dan Howley Expected to Accomplish Much With His New Proteges

Associated Press Sports Editor
KLANDO, FLA.—(P)—The Cincinnati Reds this year have a new owner, a new manager, new spirit—and some old familiar figures in new uniforms. They hope the combination will make the Redlegs more conspicuous in the National league pennant chase than has been the case since they last seriously threatened in 1926.

Late last season, the ownership of the Reds passed to the hands of Sidney Weil, young and energetic automobile dealer who admitted a lack of technical baseball knowledge but possessed enough business judgment to engage Dan Howley as general manager of the forces on the field. Howley has developed a habit of hustling that may make the Reds a decided factor this season, even though they hardly can hope to entertain any pennant prospects.

Howley has concentrated on the development of new pitchers, the encouragement of the old and the acquisition of a bigger punch in the outfield by obtaining Bob Meusel and Harry (Slug) Heilmann from American league clubs at an outlay understood to be around $50,000. The team such as the great right-handed twirler, Charles (Red) Lucas, a sensational catcher in Clyde Sukeforth; and a fine second-base combination in Hughie Critz and Horace Ford. Leo Durocher, the peppery lead obtained from the Yankees may break into this combination as an alternate or understudy for Ford at shortstop.

Meusel and Heilmann, in fine condition and eager to show they can do it, have been given a hard time by the new manager. Howley has fast balls, give the Reds a much-needed clean-up wallop. Howley will be disappointed if these two do not hit around .350 apiece. They will be supported probably by Ernest Evar Swanson, centerfielder and one of the fastest men in baseball, with Curtis Walker, Ethan Allen and perhaps Earl Webb, former Cub, in reserve.

The veteran George Kelly at first and either Charles Drennon or Joe Stripp at third base will round out the infield. Tony Cucinello came up touted as a great third baseman, from Columbus, but Howley has developed him principally as an understudy for Critz as second.

Nothing is the matter with the good right arm of Lucas who won 16 games last season, the southpaw of Jackie May. They are the aces of the staff. Pete Donohue, much heavier and stronger and Eppa Jephtha Rixey, towering southpaw, probably will capitalize their experience as relief men. Howley hopes to develop at least one, if not two consistent performers from the crop including Doug McWeeny, big fast ball pitcher from Brooklyn; Archie Campbell, another of St. Paul's numerous contributions to the big show; Silas Johnson, last year with Columbus; and Benny Fey, obtained from Nashville. Ray Kelp, whose 1929 record was distinguished chiefly by a bout with Hack Wilson; Ken Ash Rube Ehrhardt and Marvin Gudat, young Texas southpaws, are all hold-overs.

Sukeforth, who hit .354 last season, his first as a regular, will share the catching assignments with the veteran Johnny Goach.

Round Robin

Uncle Wilbert Robinson, rotund manager of the Brooklyn team, is fast "rounding" into shape. He is an outfielder should Babe Herman, the .381 hitter, continue to holdout. If Uncle Wilbert could only hit his weight it would be quite enough.

MICKY WALKER BEATS MAHONEY

Middle weight Champion Knocks Opponent Down Twice and Then Out

Chicago—(P)—Mickey Walker, ruler of the world middleweight boxers, has done his part in saving St. Patrick's day for Irish Irishmen.

Opening an extended campaign tour, Walker last night devoted less than two rounds to knocking out a Polish light heavyweight using the name Jimmy Mahoney, in the final bout at the White City arena. Mahoney did well in the first round, landing several sturdy punches, but was knocked down twice by the middleweight titleholder's left hand, before being knocked completely out.

It was Walker's first Chicago appearance since March 1929 when he was outpointed by Tommy Laughlin, in a light box weight title bout at the Chicago Stadium. About 4,500 spectators saw the bout, paying around $8.50.

The team enters its second season this year.

FOURTH WARD SOFT BALL TEAM ORGANIZES

The Fourth ward junior softball team has been reorganized, and will play its first game Friday, March 28. The team, captained by Howard Van Ryzin and Robert Lantsch, will meet the St. Joseph fifth grade team at Tilly's field.

ATHLETICS ACQUIRE RESERVE OUTFIELDER

Fort Myers, Fla.—(P)—Should Al Simmons' temperamental ankles keep him out of the field, the Athletics have acquired a reserve outfielder out of the game from time to time this year. Manager Mack has a newly acquired reserve who may get into the lineup. The extra fly, chaser is Spencer Harris, obtained from Detroit on waiver. He has been ordered to report today or tomorrow.

TWO GAMES IN "Y" BOYS LEAGUE TONIGHT

Two games will be played Tuesday evening in the Older Boys' baseball league of the Y. M. C. A. in the double elimination round to determine a champion for the last half of the season. The first game will be played at 8 o'clock and will show the Roach Spots versus the Fourth Ward Bears while the second game at 9 o'clock will show the Older Boys five and the Wolverines.

ABOUT THE NEW GOLF BALL AND OTHER THINGS

BY FRANCIS J. POWERS
Copyright 1930

HICAGO — A ball from the sand stems at Prehurst that "the new" golf ball behaved badly in a slight wind and climbed to absurd heights against the breeze," caused a snort of derision from O. B. Keeler of Atlanta, who has followed the game from its gutta percha days and then some.

Mr. Keeler's retort is in the form of a story about Peter Manning, a well known professional, who got hold of one of the new balls without knowing it and played fifteen holes before discovering the difference. The inference being that most of the difference between the present and new style balls is between the player's ear.

Jimmy Phelan, whose oratorical abilities are second only to his coaching tactics, was brought to a short halt while giving paper talks through the state of Washington. James was booked for two engagements where the audiences were composed of his school students. When he was in a school of Washington state college the "Inkies" most bitter rival pointed out the Pacific

SIGN HUNDERMARK FOR AMATEUR SHOW

Green Bay Boy Is Welter Champ; Herbie Thompson Also Signed

Billy Hundermark, Green Bay, the amateur welterweight champion of the state and billed as the "Dempsey of the amateurs" will feature the March 27 amateur fight card of Oney Johnston post of the American legion, at armory G. Announcement that the Bay youth had been signed was made Monday by legion promoters.

Hundermark has been ill for several weeks, it is said, and for that reason was not placed on cards sooner. He now has fully recovered and is stepping out to regain lost laurels. His opponent has not yet been secured but will be Valley Sarazen or some other chap from Milwaukee. Most every 140 pounder in the state with any ambition is seeking a crack at Hundermark.

An idea of the skill of the Bay youth can be gotten by the fact he beat Leo Schneider of Milwaukee, Schneider being the chap who made the good showing against Hans Ahl of Oshkosh last month and copped a decision.

Herbie Thompson from New London also is going to show on the next "simon pure" card it has been announced. Thompson is the youngster who almost stole the January show in putting up a splendid exhibition with Aussie Stuber of Sheboygan.

Thompson is being sought by promoters all over the state but his manager has decided to keep him as close to home as possible for the first couple bouts. And as Appleton is as close to New London as you can get, this city has served to good advantage.

SAUSAGES HUMBLE OSHKOSH BOWLERS

Hopfenperger Sausages won a match bowling game at Oshkosh over the weekend in topping 2675 pins to 2623 for the Hot 'n' Tots of the Sawdust city. The Appleton team won only one of the two games but was given a 100 pin handicap toward their game total.

G. Koerner was high scorer for the match with 600 total as result of a 120 and 255.

O. R. Kloehe Company Second; Mulford's, Kimberly on the Bottom

WINNING nine games and losing but one, the Wisconsin Michigan Power company basketball team captured the title in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial cage, according to a compilation of standings recently made. The O. R. Kloehe company won second place with 6 wins and 4 losses most of which occurred to another team early in the season and were wished on the club when it joined the loop.

Mulford's and Kimberly club finished on the bottom of the loop. Peculiarly enough, the two teams strengthened their lineups and then beat the best amateur teams in this section to enter the state meet at Green Bay this week.

THREE CANDIDATES GET ON TICKET IN CONTEST FOR MAYOR

Sullivan, Fargo and Gantter Seek Executive Office on April 7

Kaukauna—Last minute nomination papers filed by local men who will seek municipal offices in the coming election in April brought opposition candidates for several offices. The race for mayor has become a three-cornered affair with Mayor V. C. Sullivan, Bert Fargo and William Gantter seeking that office. For the first time in many years Louis C. Wolf will find opposition for the office of city clerk. Lorenz Mayer, who filed nomination papers Monday, will be his opponent.

John Niesen will run for reelection as first ward supervisor without any opposition. Interest in that ward will turn to the election of an alderman. Eather Brewster, incumbent, and George Brown are running for the office.

Opposition for alderman in the Second ward also sprung up Monday when Walter Cooper, former alderman, filed nomination papers. He will run against Otto G. Hass, a former alderman. Alderman T. V. Linstrom will not seek reelection. Sylvester Eder will seek reelection for supervisor in the Second ward without opposition.

William Powers, supervisor and William Carnot, alderman, will seek reelection in the Third ward without opposition. The Third and Fifth wards are the only two that the incumbents are without opponents for their respective offices in the election.

Supervisor Ben Bell and Frank Balge will oppose each other in the race for the aldermanic position in the Fourth ward. Alderman H. Weisenbach will not seek reelection and Mr. Bell will run for alderman instead of supervisor in the ward. Arthur Mayer has filed nomination papers for supervisor in that ward. He will be opposed by Max Streich. Incumbents in the Fifth ward will seek reelection without opposition.

Fred Dietrich will run for supervisor and Bert Roberts again is a candidate for alderman. Joseph Dietzler is without opposition for city treasurer and Peter J. Metz is unopposed for assessor. James McFadden and Nic Haupt have filed nomination papers for reelection on school commissioners.

BELIEVE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT WILL ISSUE MORE BONDS

President Requests Hundred Million for Farm Board

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright 1930 By Cons. Press
Washington—(CPA)— Investors who have ready cash idle at present probably will have an opportunity to buy additional government securities with it in the not distant future.

The March quarterly financing of the treasury department involving $450,000,000 in new borrowings resulted in a heavy oversubscription, but the outlook for additional offerings seems extremely bright. This is caused by the request of the president for an additional $100,000,000 to supplement the revolving fund available for use in supporting the operations of the farm board to stabilize productive prices. Congress has approved of this request.

GIVEN RIGHT-OF-WAY
There is every indication also that all the appropriation bills will go through since this is a congressional election year and measures calculated to win approval of voters will be given the right of way. It now depends pretty largely on the amount of money which will come into the treasury today from income tax payments. Treasury officials will set no definite figure, but it is known that they anticipate receipts approximating $550,000,000 on that date.

Budgets, expenditures and financing have been calculated pretty closely on this basis. The addition of another $100,000,000 for expenditure would seem to indicate therefore additional financing will be necessary after today. This in all probability will take the form of discount bills or treasury bills sold on a discount basis. There have been two issues of this kind in the last two months and both have been singularly successful. These might be so dated and issued as to mature early in July after the end of the present fiscal year, June 30.

On the other hand, it is believed in well-informed governmental circles that the income taxes, especially the corporation taxes, will total far higher than has been anticipated.

If that is the case, it is probable that no additional financing will be necessary to enable the treasury to keep "out of the red" until the end of the fiscal year.

There can be no doubt as to the success of any new treasury financing. The treasury today is in a better position to borrow than for many years. This is because many investors are holding their funds in cash, awaiting a settlement of the uneasiness of the securities market before making permanent investments. To all such, the treasury bills, offering short term securities and offering many advantages, are absolutely safe. They will liquidate and can be turned in cash at a moment's notice and yield a return during a period when the money might otherwise lie idle. The same advantages accrue to many short term issues of state and municipal bonds at present, and in view of this fact the market for those securities seems likely to be well sustained for the coming six months at least.

Comptroller of the Currency Pele says that the lowering of the New York and Cleveland rediscount rate while largely psychological will aid business and whatever aids business will give an impetus to the absorption of investment securities on the part of the public.

BETTER FEEDING, CULLING RAISED MILK PRODUCTION

Use of Tested Regulations Brought Gain in Wisconsin Herds

Better feeding and culling of dairy cows owned by members of Wisconsin Dairy Herd Improvement associations have resulted in an average increase of 46 pounds of butterfat over the 1921 record. The average production per cow in 1921 was 264.5 pounds while in 1929 it had climbed to 391.1 pounds, according to A. J. Cramer, Extension Dairy specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

The 143 associations had 3,604 members last year with a total of 3,604 herds and 85,681 animals. Of these herds 143 attained the high record of 490 pounds of fat during the year. In the same year 1778 herds made a record of over 300 pounds of fat.

On the basis of individual animal records 73 cows made the high record of over 600 pounds of butterfat. Norman and William Pado, of the Dunn county association held the high cow for 1929. A registered Holstein cow aged 11 years owned by them produced 26,115 pounds of milk testing 3.9 per cent and making 1,023.5 pounds of fat.

The high herd of the year, five registered Holsteins, is owned by Dousman Bros., Waukesha county, and produced 55,754 pounds of milk with 811.7 pounds of butterfat.

Wisconsin's cow population according to the last census was almost two million cows with an average production of 210 pounds of butterfat per cow. "It is the aim of the association to raise this production to 300 pounds of fat," said Mr. Cramer. This can be raised still higher by continued careful culling and feeding.

In the year 1929 there were 4,719 animals sold for dairy purposes from the Wisconsin herds. During the same year 7,007 animals were classed as undesirable for milking purposes and sold for beef.

Barron county has 10 associations the largest number in the state. Almost one half of all the tested herds of the state average over 300 pounds of butterfat per cow. The total number of herds 1778, whose average was over 300 pounds of fat represent one fifth of all of the dairy cows of the United States.

Wisconsin leads the nation in the plant food that has not been sold with farm animals and other farm products, according to Mr. Lillge. As this is the case manure alone can never keep up the fertility.

Except in the southwest part of the country, no farmers have applied lime to their soils which all farm plants and farm animals must have in large quantities to thrive and grow, nor have any farmers applied phosphate, except in a very few cases, to crops other than corn and cabbage.

By liming and fertilizing his fields Mr. Lillge expects to get bigger yields than in the past and to make sweet clover, red clover and alfalfa the surest and most profitable crops on his farm.

WON'T PLUNGE

Mr. Lillge does not intend to plunge into his fertilizing plan and make it expensive. On the other hand he expects to fertilize only 10 acres each year. On the 10 acres he will apply lime this spring at the rate of 10 tons per acre and phosphate at the rate of 250 pounds per acre. In the case of each field in succession he will be governed by the suggestions of the college of agriculture as they appear in the reports on the soil tests. W. J. Hayes, an Oconto dairyman, treated 10 acres of worn out soil in the same way last spring and got 67 pounds of milk per acre, and one of the best stands of alfalfa in this part of the state. Peter Swartz, Waukesha, the alfalfa king of Wisconsin, gave a stand of alfalfa that was being smothered by June grass, a feed of 250 pounds of phosphate per acre after the first cutting, and got a tremendous stand. This treatment saved his seven acres of alfalfa and gave him 23 tons the first cutting the following spring and 21 tons the second cutting.

Mr. Lillge expects to truck the lime he needs for his 10 acres from the quarry and to use 30 tons. Before the first field treated needs another application of lime and phosphate, he will have treated all the other fields of his farm. Mr. Lillge's experiments will be watched closely by farmers in his community as have been those of Anton Miller, Kaukauna, who has made a sure thing of raising alfalfa by feeding it lime and phosphate.

A Year of Outstanding Accomplishment

The management of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) takes both pride and pleasure in directing the attention of the Company's best of friends and patrons to its accomplishments during the past year.

The financial statement just released evidences 1929 as the most successful year in the Company's history.

To the great public, whose enthusiastic and continued patronage has made this possible, the Company returns appreciative thanks.

To the army of 37,125 employees, who have so ably carried out the policy of the Company in giving to the public a complete and satisfying service, much credit is due.

During the past year, this Company has taken a great stride forward by acquiring control of Pan American Petroleum and Transport Company and subsidiaries with its five million acres of oil lands, thus providing an assured source of crude petroleum and securing expanded marketing facilities.

This Company has likewise extended its marketing facilities in the great Rocky Mountain area through the Midwest Refining Company.

Now the touring motorist will find Standard Oil Company (Indiana) emblems of friendly, satisfying service in much new territory.

The motorists of the Middle West have been quick to accept the New Red Crown Ethyl Gasoline, introduced late in 1929. They have grasped the significance of a fuel that meets perfectly the needs of the new high compression engine and lends new life to the veterans of the highway.

An accurate idea of the degree of acceptance by the public of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) products is reflected in sales of 39,017,894 barrels of finished petroleum products in 1929 as compared with 35,432,806 barrels in 1928.

The latest achievement of the Manufacturing Department is the development of a new motor oil—which finds expression in New Iso-Vis and New Polarine, being introduced with great promise to the public, coincident with the publication of this message.

The success of the Stock Purchasing Plan is emphasized by pointing out that after being in effect nine years, approximately 75% of the stock distributed under this plan remains in the hands of employees—which demonstrates the value of employee partnership.

The Stock Purchasing Plan, the Annuity Plan and the Death Benefit Plan constitute the management's tangible expression of its appreciation of the unwavering loyalty and tireless efforts of the employees.

The Board of Directors is gratified by the constantly mounting number of stockholders—now 81,022. This is approximately 30,000 more than were of record a year ago.

With this rapidly spreading ownership it seems certain that 1930 will be another year of achievement—greater in progress, greater in opportunity to serve the millions of people who call the Middle West home.

QUESTION of HONOR

CHAPTER 27
SHEB CAPITULATES

WHEN Delphine came into the room some five minutes later, Anne was still standing just as Glenn had left her, hands spread out flat against the table behind her.

When the kitchen door had closed on her at last, Anne dropped on her knees and spread out the crumpled ball of paper on the floor. The writing was undoubtedly in her aunt's round, neatly formed characters:

"Dear Anne,
"Everything has worked out exactly as we planned. Under the circumstances, a divorce can easily be arranged—with a very substantial settlement, since we have positive proof about the gold. These mountaineers are simple creatures—perhaps he will give you all of it if you are tactful!
"As to Leon, the delirious, I think you haven't done so badly in giving him a fright. Perhaps—but we can discuss all that later."
"Your aunt,
"E. Wilmet."

It was all clear enough, except about the gold. Could that by any chance have been what Glenn meant about the blue print—the postscript to her aunt?

Still he ought not to have doubted her; he ought to have known—And she had not had even a chance to defend herself; her nerves had played her that stupid trick. She pulled herself up wearily. There was only one definite idea in her mind—she must not be here when Glenn returned.

At nightfall, she stood, standing with her brow pressed to the window pane.

She had no clear idea how much later it was that a shadow, denser, moving more swiftly than the other night shadows, crossed the spot on which her eyes were fastened—crossed and disappeared. Another shadow followed in its wake, another, and another. Anne moved vaguely, some dim recollection stirring in her mind. They were going into the tunnel.

A figure much taller and bulkier than the rest loomed suddenly among the shadows. It was the giant she had seen at the dance—Burkhalter.

There was not a moment to lose.

Thirty minutes later, Glenn, Sheb and the foremen, from their behind rock barricades and piles of cement bags, heard a rustling in the trees at the edge of the clearing. A moving white spot was covered instantly with half a dozen loaded rifles.

"Who's there?" Glenn called out guardedly.

There was no answer, save another rustle in the trees, then the sound of footsteps running swiftly forward. A rifle spoke from one of the breast-works. It was Sheb's. Glenn leaped his shallow intrenchment and moved cautiously forward, gun cocked. A low figure came stumbling toward him with an odd, zigzagging motion, toppling and fell so close that his boot struck against it.

"Don't fire," he called back, as he bent still cautiously over the prostrate form. Then in a smothered voice, "Anne, for God's sake—"

"Don't speak again," she whispered, "there are men inside the tunnel there—50 at least. I thought—"

He lifted her from the ground and her head fell back against him. "Anne—are you hurt?"

She straightened herself. "No, I only fell because I thought someone might fire again. You must go back at once. I'm afraid that shot had ruined everything. Burkhalter and his men are in the tunnel—they've planned to take you by surprise. I've didn't warn them—"

Suddenly Glenn's bitter doubts returned. "How do I know you're not in the plot with the rest?" he demanded harshly. "I tell you I've got traitors enough in the camp already! Go—back to your own people—back where you belong. I never want to see you again!"

Anne shrank back farther away from him, her face white with despair and pain. Glenn's arm sank to his side. He turned abruptly. But another figure was humping along unseen through the darkness—Sheb. He threw a small flashlight inquiringly on Anne:

"What's that on your left sleeve?" Sheb asked Anne.

"I don't know," Anne said in a low tone.

"Looks mighty durned like blood to me," Sheb said bluntly. "I hope that fell bullet o' mine—"

"Certainly not," she answered briefly. "I must have torn my arm on a briar—I didn't notice."

Glenn glanced sharply over his shoulder and realized that now at all events she was telling the truth. "Here, Sheb," he commanded under his breath, "you take her back to the cabin or—wherever she wants to go—and if she's hurt, go for a doctor, do you hear? Quick now, back into the woods there!"

In the shelter of the woods, Anne faced Sheb determinedly. "You go on back there and help," she implored. "Unless you do, I won't stir a step from here."

Sheb shuffled uneasily from one foot to the others. "Orders is orders," he muttered uncertainly.

Still Sheb hesitated. "An' besides you're hurt—that 'ar durned bullet—you can't fool me."

"It merely grazed the skin. If you're not a coward," she left the suggestion unfinished.

"You're shot, you're not hurt bud?" Sheb was already turning in his tracks, only too eager to be persuaded. "An' you'll take the blame from the boss?"

"Yes, yes," Anne assented anxiously.

But he hesitated a moment longer. "I'm durned sorry about that fool shot, missy," he gulped out at last, as though each word cost him acute physical pain. "I've been agin you from the fust, an' if I'd a had my say, the boss never would a got himself all hitched and tangled up the way he has, but jes' the same, I didn't aim ter do you no harm, so—I'm powerful much obliged to you fer lettin' me go back."

Anne sank down on a rock by the trail. From her slip she tore a strip and bandaged her wounded left arm—it was bleeding profusely but she thought she had strength to go on. As she rose, somewhat unsteadily, she heard a terrific blast and she surmised that Glenn's enemies had been successful—they had blown up the dam.

With a heavy heart she made her way toward the cabin. She never knew how she reached it but, once within the door, Delphine hurried to her aid.

Then, with a word to Anne, the French maid went off for a doctor with only a vague idea how to find one!

For a while, Anne lay in a half stupor but Glenn's angry warning he did not want her to be there when he returned pressed upon her bedroom. In a closet she sought a dark dress but paused as she heard a footstep. She hurriedly threw a negligee over her gown.

The bedroom door opened and a man pushed through to face a crouching girl, white and stunned.

"Leon," she whispered incredulously. "Leon—"

UPTURN IS SEEN IN CAR BUSINESS AT AUTO CAPITAL

Figures Show Industry Is Employing More Men Than Previously

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press)
Detroit (CPA)—Two years ago, Maynard Keynes, British economist and author of "The Economic Consequences of the Peace," predicted in the London Nation and Atheneum that the American bull market would last until just about six months after Henry Ford got into full production.

The astonishing fulfillment of this prophecy was an additional detail of a convincing body of evidence tending to prove that automobile manufacturing and distribution is the key process of American business. An instrument board indicator which would record manufacture, employment and sales also would be a barometer of business conditions.

Today, in Detroit, automobile capital of America, figures are available which show, on their face, an upturn in the automobile industry. For the week ending March 15, there were employed 136,476 workers. For the week ending Dec. 7, 1929, after the market smash, there were employed 172,073. Thus the last week of production shows an increase of 24,597 or 14.2 per cent in the number of persons employed.

FIGURES UNCERTAIN
As to what extent this increase is offset by part time employment, or other qualifications, information is meagre and conflicting. Neither state or federal bureaus or the manufacturers themselves will go beyond the figures as they stand.

While this bit of statistical nourishment may be taken as a face value, Detroit is now the testing laboratory for new plans or organization, operation, production and distribution far more fundamental than the readjustment of 1921. If these changes work out, the automobile will pace the industrial parade with a more even tempo, no longer forging ahead or dropping behind its business cohorts. The wheels of the factories are to be meshed more closely in the rack and opinion of economic safety and stability.

Some of these adjustments are fundamental and some are palliative. With ample credit reserves to tide it over a period of depression, the automobile industry is moving ahead confidently, but naturally is concentrating on immediate necessities and possibilities. Among these is the proposed expenditure of about $15,000,000 during 1930 to junk 400,000 used cars. If the automobile is the key to national business, the used car trade is the key to prosperity in the automobile industry.

LEADS COMMITTEE
R. H. Grant is chairman of a committee to carry through the junking plan. Other members are C. E. Bliss, J. E. Fields, Earl G. Hoffman, H. W. Peters, Courtney Johnson and Edward S. Jordan. One company already is junking cars extensively. The dealer spots $50, the company $50 and the spavined old trade-in, whose reconditioned value is doubtful anyway, goes to the graveyard. But there is plenty of acute competition in the automobile industry and not only this junking process but the other stimulating treatments will depend on a mobilization of diverse interests in a highly concentrated plan.

Opening the trade channels with a sledge and crow-bar is admittedly one of the palliative measures, but if it is carried on to a sufficient degree it will help clear the way for new sales. While oil wells have been capped, peaches have been allowed to rot on the ground and fish have been thrown back into the sea on account of over-production, this is probably the first time that expensive machinery has been smashed up to redress the unfavorable balance of production against distribution.

Leaders of the industry want two things understood: first, that the cars which will be junked will be the veterans which will be better off the road anyway, and second, that higher gear ratio and horsepower are speeding up traffic to a degree which makes the highways no longer safe places for cripples. Traffic systems have been adjusted to a swifter stream. Last year saw the first arrest for slow driving. There are many records of disastrous accidents due to slow, clumsy and intractable old cars.

SAYS GOOD WILL TRAIN BRINGS GOOD PUBLICITY

Madison (CP)—A good will tour train is the best thing an advertising Wisconsin's agricultural products in the opinion of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture and Markets.

The department has sent exhibits on good will trains through the south, midwest and east for the past three years. The last one toured to the Gulf and carried five display cars, three of which exhibited agricultural products.

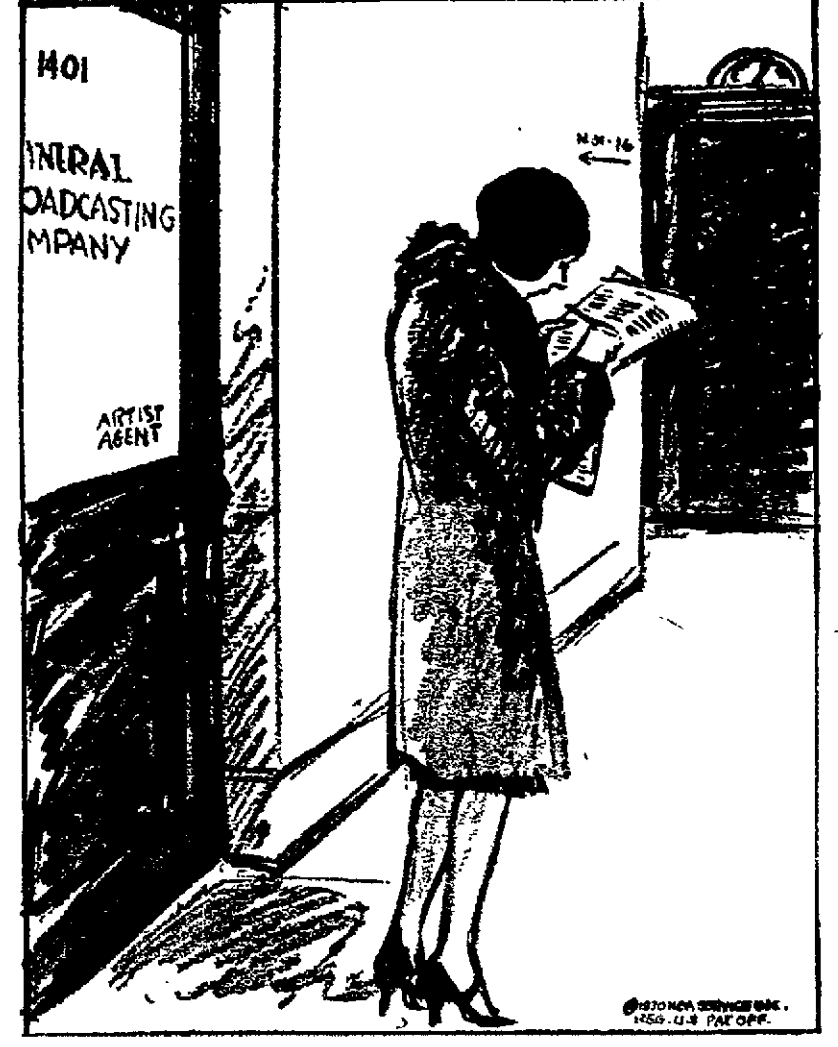

More than 33,000 people visited the exhibit cars during the two-week trip and the cost to the department was approximately $1,100 or an average cost of 3.4 cents for each person who saw the displays.

When one considers the fact, directed William F. Tork, commissioner of agriculture and markets, that each of the 33,218 people visiting the train had an opportunity to see, hear about, and in many cases, sample Wisconsin cheese, butter, canned goods, seed potatoes, and other food products, it is clear that an average cost of 3.4 cents per person is very reasonable advertising.

To compare the tour with other mediums of advertising, direct mail for example, it would cost three times as much as the department expended on the tour to mail as many circulars to this number of people as they received on the train. In addition to the value of circulars, they also had the opportunity to ascertain for themselves by first hand information on the quality of Wisconsin products.

LIFE'S ODDITIES

By George Clark

"I should have answered that manicurist ad, first. It'll probably be gone now."

Spring Is Ideal Time To Plant Variety Of Roses

The favorite flower for the garden is the Rose. We need not go into the reason for this; it is fundamental and deeply ingrained in the spirit of man. It suffices to say that the Rose is considered most beautiful of all flowers and is most eagerly desired in gardens.

Besides the enjoyment one has directly from growing and having the flowers themselves, it is a delightful hobby and a fascinating pastime to learn to know the Rose family, and to associate oneself with others who delight in this phase of gardening.

No garden flowers of any importance may be had in bloom from May till December except Roses, but to have Roses in the garden after the normal June flowering period we must plant Hybrid Teas. They are never very large bushes, seldom over two feet high, and do not look well planted singly, and most likely will not thrive. If you want only a few plants for an occasional flower, plant them in a row in the vegetable garden and hoe and cultivate them like cabbages and turnips; but if you want a lot of fine flowers, give them a little garden, or space to themselves, with rich soil, plant them carefully and see that they never lack protection from their enemies and do not suffer from drought and lack of being. Cared for thus, they will bloom gloriously about ten weeks after planting and continue until freezing weather kills the buds.

Tastes differ so very much and conditions vary from garden to garden so radically that it is difficult to recommend special varieties. Not all do equally well. Some are very shy bloomers; some are naturally small, weak plants; but all of them have some virtue which has made them admired and desirable. Roses are so inexpensive that even the poorest plant more than pays for itself by the blooms it produces the first season. And, besides, the interested gardener always wants to try new and different things each year.

Of the Roses that are almost certain to do well, there are Grossau Tepitz, Lady Alice Stanley, Mrs. Wakefield Christie-Miller, Mme. Butterfly, Ophelia, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Radiance, Red Radiance, and Willmore. These are not the best Roses by any means; they are merely the easiest "doers" and, in general, succeed where others may fail. Those admired most for their extreme beauty or fragrance, are: Jonhanna J. L. Mock, Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, Lady Alice Stanley, Los Angeles, Mme. Butterfly, Mme. Edouard Herriot, Souv. de Georges Permet, Willmore, and William F. Dreer.

Before the Hybrid Teas were created, the most popular Roses were known as Hybrid Perpetuals. They are extremely beautiful, with very large flowers on quite large bushes, but most of them bloom in June only, or have only an occasional flower afterward. Because they are so extremely handsome, and because they withstand cold weather much better than the Hybrid Teas, they are still much grown in the colder parts of the country, and some Rose enthusiasts prefer them to any other type. They should be grown in beds, the same as Hybrid Teas, but they need a little more space to develop.

Spring is the ideal time to plant Roses. This is a good time to order your plants that you may have them on time to set out during first planting weather.

CAPONE FACES TWO BIG JOBS WHEN HE RETURNS TO "CHI"

Must Make New Agreement With Enemy and Repair Political Fences

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Copyright 1930 by Cons. Press
Chicago (CPA)—Two big jobs face that president of Amalgamated Underworld, Inc.—"Scarface Al" Capone—when he reaches Chicago following his release from Philadelphia's jail.

One is the negotiation of a new trade agreement with George "Bugs" Moran, his north-side enemy. The other involves the repairing of political fences which have become slightly damaged as a result of the long absence of the industry's principal executive.

A third—but not of Capone's making—will consist of a tussle with the federal government over the matter of a prospective contempt of federal court proceeding. The outcome of this tiff will be watched with interest inasmuch as "Scarface Al" admittedly has flouted the prohibition laws for years without so much as a slap on the wrist from prohibition enforcement authorities.

The chief will find the business itself good, under the capable direction of Jack Guzik, who handled organization affairs during his absence. There has been no trouble at all with the police at a time when other gangs were suffering interference, and federal authorities have not been bothersome.

Inter-gang relations, however, are strained. Only on Sunday, John (Bilkenn) Rizzo—a former Capone collector, who had affiliated himself with the enemy Moran outfit—was found slain. The truce entered into a year ago, following the Valentine Day massacre, has been broken and inter-gang war with a heavy toll of death, has been going on here for weeks.

Although Moran has staged no reprisal for the slaying of his seven lieutenants, and now seems as inquisitive as in liquor, that firing squad episode still rankles.

"CAPONE GANG"
It is recalled that he said at the time: "Only one gang kills like that—the Capone gang."

So a new conference between the heads of the North Side and the South Side organizations is confidently expected. Chicago has shown itself willing enough to permit the organized liquor traffic which these men operate, providing they go about the business in peace.

The April 8 primary election is another matter. It involves judgeships and other offices not only in Chicago but in surrounding villages where Capone forces have their strongest hold. "Scarface Al" promptly sent Frank J. Loesch—who has worked to clean up Chicago—in a conference nearly two years ago that he would do his part to keep the voting peaceful in the rough wards. Orders on this matter are counted on.

When Capone comes to town, presumably his seven ton car will be brought out for the event. This machine, bullet proof throughout, is so heavily constructed that the first time one of the doors was opened it dropped off, from the weight. The defect has been remedied since. When riding by car, the veteran in the past usually had one load of "torpedoes," sure shots, riding ahead and another behind his machine.

His long absence from Chicago has caused rather than picked among certain elements of the local population so that the home-coming, even if a short one, will be welcomed. Philadelphia was surprised at the generosity of "Scarface Al", who spent at least $50,000 helping needy prisoners in the jail. They should have been acquainted with him in years past when he admittedly ran through $7,500,000 in a period of a very few years.

So as he merges from his first jail sentence, Capone muses: "They call me a bootlegger," he says. "Yes, it's bootleg while it is on the trucks, but when it's in the clubs or the locker rooms or in the home, it's hospitality. I supply a legitimate demand and I call it a legitimate business. They say I violate the prohibition law. Who doesn't?"

Rubio Becoming Known As "Hermit President"

Mexico City (CP)—President Pascual Ortiz Rubio's first administrative actions promise to gain for him the sobriquet of "Mexico's hermit president."

The virtual seclusion in which the new executive has placed himself by removing his residence and offices to Chapultepec castle, which is easy to see in Mexico City but hard to gain access to, and his continued refusal to attend banquets, along with his withdrawal from public appearance—those things are distinctly new to the Mexican people and furnish reasons for the possible nickname.

Mexico's recent presidents, for the most part, have been somewhat akin to royalty in that they consciously or otherwise were used for display purposes, being frequent attendants at public inaugurations, banquets and other functions which go to make up Mexican life.

Hardly a week went by that the president was not called upon to attend a sporting event, participate in the opening of a new public work or building, attend a banquet or reception or make some other public appearance.

Ortiz Rubio, however, gives indications of being of a different stripe. Prior even to his inauguration he publicly stated that he would not attend banquets and that none was to be organized in his honor. The understanding was that this notification went likewise for various other public functions where his presence might be expected.

Ortiz Rubio has made only one public appearance, and that of the briefest nature, since his inauguration six weeks ago. He bade farewell to the Mexican athletes going to Cuba for the central Olympic games in a brief reception at his home. It was said his great interests in sports was largely instrumental in his consenting to this action.

Otherwise the executive has defined himself to the public and for the most part to private audience, inasmuch as it has been extremely difficult for persons other than government officials even to gain access to his home. Once inside the house persons eager to talk with Ortiz Rubio have found themselves relayed to secretaries who handled their business.

By withdrawing largely to private life Ortiz Rubio believes he can accomplish a greater amount of work and lend himself more assiduously to the task of working out Mexico's multiple problems, to which principle he is pledged.

HOUSE COMMITTEE PREPARES PROBE OF HOLDING FIRMS

Interstate Commerce Commissioners First Witnesses in Inquiry

Washington (CP)—Investigation of railroad holding companies by the house interstate commerce committee is expected by chairman Parker to begin early next month with members of the Interstate Commerce commission as the first witnesses.

The procedure under which the investigation is to be conducted is being formulated by Dr. W. M. W. Spahn, special counsel retained to direct the technical phases of the inquiry.

The commission officials are to be heard first, Parker said, in order to lay the ground work for the investigation which is to be made to ascertain the true ownership of the railroads with a view to formulating legislation which would bring the holding companies under the jurisdiction of the commission. This is necessary, he continued, before the committee could formulate legislation to bring about the consolidation of the railroads.

He explained the inquiry also would be directed into the states to learn the decisions of the courts under state laws and how the different states commissions have dealt with the holding companies within their jurisdiction. After this information is filed with that of the house interstate commerce committee, representatives of the railroads controlled by holding companies are to be called to explain the different connections and whether the boards of directors of different railroads are interlocking.

The Interstate Commerce commission had found, the New Yorker said, in making its survey looking to the consolidation of the fifteen hundred railroads of the country into twenty-one great systems that it had been unable to ascertain who actually owned and controlled these railroads.

The purpose of the consolidation, he explained, was to link the weak lines with the big systems in order to insure transportation to all regions now served. He added that many small lines had been operating without making a profit and said that many of them "were barely making operating expenses."

New York—Mrs. Ella Blake of Amarillo, Texas, is to receive about $250 a week from a play built on a magazine story written by her son while awaiting execution. She has accepted a 20 per cent royalty and a first payment of $1,000.

Easing Credit Rates and Better Employment Situation Cause Rise

Decrease in Visible Supply Also Helps Market in Ad- vance

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor
Chicago—(AP)—Wheat scored upturns in price late today, helped by reports of a decrease in the 2,345,000 bushels of the world's wheat available supply. Meanwhile, expectations were that a cold wave would work down from the north by Thursday or Friday over domestic wheat territory. The world's available supply of wheat is now 11,598,000 bu.
against 392,108,000 bu. a year ago.

Widespread moisture today put an effective stop to domestic crop reports for a while. The same being said for advantage to the selling side of the wheat market during much of the day. Something of an offset, however, came from advices saying crops in France were deteriorating as a result of too much rain. There were also indications that North American export businesses in wheat yesterday was larger than had been acknowledged, confirming what being made today. 9,000,000 bushels of wheat at Liverpool alone.

Renewal of Russian wheat business today contributed an element of weakness, though, to the market at Liverpool. It was asserted also in some quarters that export demand today for North American wheats was again slow and that North American shipments were continuing very much below the 9,000,000 bushels a week estimated as necessary to furnish European requirements during the ensuing 21 weeks.

Wet weather over the corn belt had considerable effect on sentiment which was a good deal more bullish than late. It is said six cargoes of corn have been chartered to load or have loaded for shipment from here for foreign navigation. Country offerings today were small and shipping demand here fairly active. Oats advanced owing to sympathy with other grains.

Provisions were responsive to upturns in the value of hogs.

In the utilities, Electric Bond and Share was sent up above the 100-mark once more, in buying attributed to the prominent part which bond and share interests are playing in the Electric Power and Light-United Gas Merger. United Gas was heavily traded, selling above 40 for the first time this year. European Electric, in the recent formation of which Bond and Share took a prominent part, was also strong, selling up to record heights. U. S. Electric Power and United Foundries received better support, rallying moderately. Niagara Hudson was also firm.

MAY PURCHASE FOUR FAST MOTOR BOATS FOR GUARD SERVICE

Senator Blaine Expects Little Opposition Against Latest Bill

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington—Four fast motor boats will be operated on Lake Michigan during the next navigation season to save lives in such disasters as occurred in storms last fall if the House of Representatives accepts an amendment to the deficiency appropriation bill passed by the Senate.

Senator John J. Blaine of Bosconobol proposed the amendment which would divert to life-saving work on Lake Michigan four of the 30 coast guard motor boats requested by the treasury for work in preventing smuggling on the Great Lakes.

Not a vote was cast against the Blaine amendment after he had told the senate about the loss of lives in storms last fall. Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington half-heartedly made a point of order against the amendment, Vice President Curtis read Blaine's amendment in order, and it was passed.

Senator Blaine read a letter from Capt. John Olander of the Racine Coast Guard setting forth the need for the boats, pointing out the inadequacy of the equipment of the Coast Guard for life-saving work. Senator Blaine told of the heroic work of the Racine, Kenosha, and Milwaukee Coast Guard stations in the October storms, despite the lack of equipment.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan also spoke in favor of the Blaine amendment.

It may be a little difficult to get the house to agree to the amendment for the Coast Guard is expected to oppose it.

Three Wisconsin congressmen were members of the official house of representatives committee for the funeral of William Howard Taft. Representative Henry Allen Cooper of Racine, dean of the house, headed the house list, and Representative Edward E. Browne of Watapaca and John M. Nelson of Madison were members.

Thinking of the almost unprecedented service of Taft to the nation and the coincidence of his death on the same day as that of his colleague, Justice Edward Terry Sanford, Representative Cooper recalled a similar coincidence in history. Thomas Jefferson and John Adams both signed the Declaration of Independence. Both were friends. Both died on the fiftieth anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Representative John M. Nelson of Madison attended the conference of business leaders from all over the country Monday evening on the expansion program of the Boy Scouts of America. President Hoover addressed the conference, which was sponsored by members of the cabinet and leaders in business, the professions, and labor.

The Wisconsin American Legion will have a permanent home on a beautiful site at the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers if congress passes a bill introduced by Representative John C. Schafer of Milwaukee.

The Schafer bill would authorize the government to cede to the Wisconsin Department of the American Legion about 10 acres of land belonging to the soldiers' home.

It is understood that the American Legion plans to build its clubhouse and headquarters as a replica of some historic place, such as Mount Vernon.

Under the arrangement provided for in the bill, the property would not be subject to taxation and would revert to the government if the American Legion should ever cease to use it for its state headquarters.

Wisconsin Democratic women will participate in a regional conference of Democratic women to be held in Chicago Monday and Tuesday. Women from Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin will meet with Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, former governor of Wyoming, who is vice-chairman of the Democratic national committee in charge of women's activities.

Mrs. James Carrigan of Milwaukee, national committeewoman for Wisconsin, Miss Catherine M. Cuscut, of Madison, Wisconsin, vice-chairman, and Hon. Mary O. Krzyzak of Milwaukee, member of the Wisconsin Legislature, are the Wisconsin Democratic women.

Another finger was badly crushed. While changing a print roll on a paper machine, Mr. Burmeister caught his finger between the bearing and the roll.

Applications for increased radio facilities for Wisconsin continue to come into the Federal Radio Commission following the plea of the congressional delegation for a cleared channel and better regional stations.

The Milwaukee Journal has applied for a cleared channel. Marquette has applied for increase in power to 500 watts from 250 watts and a change in frequency to 900 kilocycles instead of 1120. C. E. Whitmore of Kenosha has applied for permission to assign his license for WCLO to WCLO Radio corporation. The Ann Arbor railroad has applied for renewal of its coastal license (not broadcasting) at Manitowoc, and the Northern States Power company at St. Croix Falls has applied for renewal of its license for its short-wave-length station.

The Senate has confirmed the nominations of Glenn E. Schwandt as postmaster at Curtiss and Edwin E. Weinmann as postmaster at Iola.

The following Wisconsin men have recently accepted appointments in the army reserves:

Floyd Eugene Garton, Eau Claire, first lieutenant, Infantry; Glenn Otis Linderman Jr., Eau Claire, second lieutenant, Infantry; Joe Barber Nims, Clintonville, second lieutenant, Field Artillery; Arthur Edward Dammow, Fond du Lac, second lieutenant, Cavalry.

FORMER LAWRENTIAN WRITES ARTICLE ON COLLEGE EDUCATION

"The Blight on the College" Makes Appearance in "Rotarian"

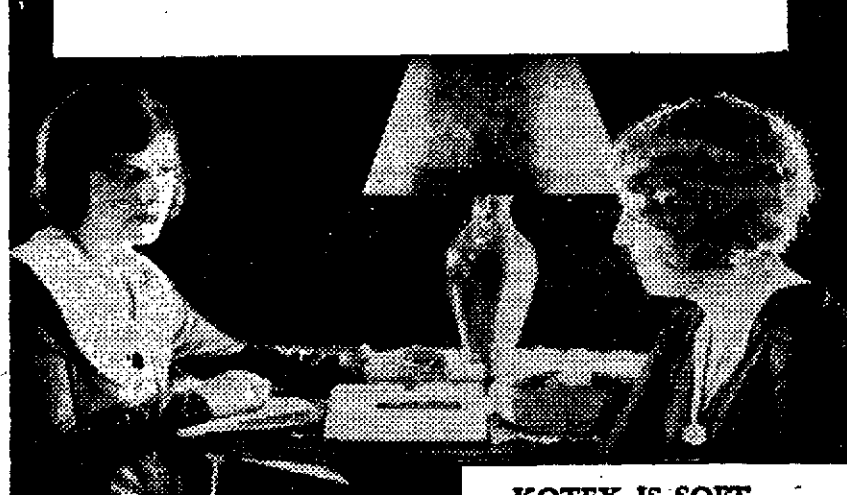

An article by Dr. Mathew Lyle Spencer, formerly on the faculty of Lawrence college and now president of the University of Washington, appears in the March issue of "The Rotarian," international organ of Rotary.

The article, entitled "The Blight on the College," points out the greatest and fundamental weakness in American education.

"The great genius of America is not in education—in either secondary or higher education, in either the presidential or the professional chairs," declares Dr. Spencer. "Individual universities have individual brilliant men—a rare mind here and there, though many institutions do not have even a single one—but the great imaginative genius is absent. Those who might have proved to be the commanding educational statesmen of our day, and of future days, have been enticed into commerce or industry or other professions than education and the ministry, neither of which has been offering adequate inducements that are necessary in order to command the services of the brightest minds. "This is the fundamental cause for the widespread criticism of colleges today, and until correction is effected, in large measure at least, we may expect dissatisfaction not only to continue, but to increase. And it is depressing to believe that correction will not be made soon. Resultant weaknesses from this situation, according to Dr. Spencer, are first, the lack of a prevailing philosophy of education in the average college, and therefore the lack of adequate objectives; and second,

STOCKS OF ALL FARM PRODUCTS DECREASED

Madison—(AP)—With the exception of rye, wheat and hay, farm stocks of all important Wisconsin crops are smaller than a year ago, the Wisconsin and United States Department of Agriculture announced today.

A cut in production and an increase in the number of cattle during the attempt to educate four different classes of students in a common curriculum.

tributed to the reduction of feed grain stocks but hay stocks are well above last year because of the excellent 1929 stock.

Stocks of corn, the most important feed grain in Wisconsin were reduced two per cent over a year ago while oat stocks are estimated at 29,000,000 bushels this month as compared with 40,000,000 bushels a year ago.

Farm holdings of barley are estimated at 6,400,000 bushels as compared with 9,000,000 bushels a year ago.

Only about 26 per cent of the 1929 potato production was on farms at the beginning of March compared with 45 per cent last year. About 2,700,000 tons of hay stock were on farms at the beginning of the month. A year ago there were only 1,600,000 tons.
